

Senate Passes $27-Billion Tax-Cut Bill; Campaign Funds Tied To It

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate passed Monday night a $27-billion tax-cut bill after tying it to a Republican proposal to finance presidential campaigns with tax funds.

The bill contains provisions asked by President Nixon as a part of his economic policy designed to create jobs and boost industrial production.

These provisions would increase consumer purchasing power by advancing the dates for tax cuts for individuals, and offer big incentives for business modernization.

Senate passage sent the legislation to conference with the House which approved a different version Oct. 6. The conference is expected to begin hammering out a compromise after a Thanksgiving recess ends Nov. 29.

In 10 days and nights of floor debate, the Senate added about $11.5 billion of additional benefits to the House-passed version.

And the Senate added the campaign-financing provision, which would make available $20.4 million in taxpayer funds to the Democratic and Republican nominees for president in 1972, and $6.3 million to third-party candidate George C. Wallace if he runs again.

Ignoring hints of a presidential veto of the entire tax package, the Senate added the campaign-fund amendment by a vote of 52 to 47. Democrats closed ranks almost solidly to adopt the amendment, sponsored by Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I.

Most of the tax benefits added by the Senate are for individuals; Democrats had insisted the original bill was unbalanced in favor of business.

The biggest additions on the floor were amendments to provide an $800 personal income tax exemption starting in 1972, instead of the $750 voted by the House, and to give parents a credit of up to $325, which could be subtracted from taxes due, on expenses of a college student.

Republicans said the presidential campaign financing plan amounted to creation of a "slush fund" to help Democrats out of their financial difficulties.

Democrats said it was a good-government proposal to free presidential candidates permanently from the commitments they now have to make to get money for spiraling campaign costs.

Sponsors of the plan are confident it will be in the final bill, since the House accepted a similar provision as a Senate rider on a tax bill in 1966.

At that time, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., who will head the House conferees again this time, made a strong speech for it.

If it is retained, Nixon will be faced with the choice of vetoing his tax bill or, in effect, making $204 million available to the Democratic nominee next year.

Republicans made clear in the debate that their party would not use the federal funds next year.

Just before the final vote, Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, the GOP national chairman, sought to kill the campaign financing plan with a point of order.

He said it appropriated the checkoff money into the campaign fund and therefore was unconstitutional since appropriations must originate in the House. He lost 58 to 41.

Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania announced he would ask Nixon to veto the bill.

Before going to Nixon, the measure must go back to the House which has passed its own version of a tax bill. The House bill does not include the campaign financing provision, but Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, has said he would support such a provision.

Senate Democrats accepted an amendment by Sen. Charles Mathias, R-Md., enabling taxpayers to designate which party is to receive their $1 contributions. The Mathias amendment was adopted 72-27.

As originally proposed, the plan provided only for a $1 checkoff into a nonpartisan fund from which each major party presidential nominee could draw equally.

Postal Service Confirms New Process Mail Move

An announcement confirming a recent story that parcel post mail generated by the New Process Company will be taken directly from the company's plant to the Buffalo Post Office for processing and dispatching beginning Feb. 19, 1972, was released today by Assistant Regional Postmaster General Francis X. Biglin in Philadelphia.

Biglin cited the 6.3 million pieces of parcel post handled annually by the local office, and said that "this move will lead to better service for all parcel post customers of the Warren Post Office." He noted that, as a result of the shift, 26 full time employees and 39 part-time employees who will be declined excess at the Warren facility have reassignment rights to comparable positions in other locations. In this instance, he said, these employees will be offered positions in the Buffalo Post Office and reimbursement for relocation expenses.

Postmaster Frank A. Fago of the Warren office, commenting on the release, noted that he had requested and been granted in 1970 authorization to operate an early morning parcel post operations tour. By the beginning of 1971, he said, the Monday-through-Friday operations were on a 24-hour basis, as the facility had reached its workload limitations.

In early 1970, local officials were hoping to justify the construction of the new facility in Warren designed for parcel post operation, said Fago. However, in June, 1970, the Postal Service suspended all plans for new construction pending the development of a new national concept for handling parcel post mail. The new concept, involving a nationwide network of 21 highly mechanized bulk mail centers and 12 auxiliary service facilities (including Buffalo's), is now being implemented, with completion scheduled for the end of 1975.

The Buffalo facility, as presently constituted, would be operational only eight hours, while the overcrowded Warren plant would continue on a 24-hour basis if the shift were not made. Such limited operation was difficult to justify in view of the dollar investment in space and equipment, said Fago; hence the switch.

Treasury Secretary Scores Meany On Treatment Of Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally declared Monday that the AFL-CIO could damage the anti-inflation effort by refusal to cooperate and accused its president, George Meany, of boorish and arrogant behavior toward President Nixon.

Connally deplored also, in a broadcast news conference, the Pay Board's approval of a coal industry settlement giving miners a 15 per cent first-year wage boost, saying he hopes it would not become a precedent.

"I was disappointed with the decision," said Connally, who is chairman of the Council of Living Council and Nixon's chief economic spokesman.

"I would say on the face of it that it certainly contravened

Up to 18 inches of drifting snow had fallen by Monday on parts of Somerset County, closing schools in five districts and stranding hundreds of motorists on the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Elsewhere, 10 inches of snow were reported in Lawrence County, where classes in five school districts were cancelled and Interstate 80 was closed 25 miles from Sharon to Youngstown, Ohio.

Those were the two areas hit hardest by western Pennsylvania's first major snowfall of the season, which promised an additional 1-2 inches by Tuesday.

In Pittsburgh, thousands of rush hour commuters were stranded when blowing snow reduced visibility to near zero. Motorists, caught off guard by the early evening snow squalls, slipped and slid helplessly on most major outboard arteries. Police reported numerous accidents, none serious, and at one time, traffic on the city's Parkway West was backed up eight miles from downtown to Churchill.

Motorists on the turnpike found another way to wait out winter's first icy blast.

"We have 80 rooms and they are all filled, and last night we had about 15 people in the lobby," said Carol Bruening, a desk clerk at the Somerset Holiday Inn.

"Some of them have been leaving today," she added, "but we are checking them in just as fast as we check them out."

Many turnpike motorists, unable to find rooms, spent the night in restaurants.

Many turnpike motorists, unable to find rooms, spent the night in restaurants.

"We had about 50 or 60 in the dining room all night," said Mrs. Nancy Balough, in charge of the night shift at a Howard Johnson's restaurant near Somerset.

"Most of them ate and then just sat around all night and drank coffee," she said. "It was blowing so bad outside that nobody wanted to take the chance."

The Beacon Truck Stop, which does turnpike towing, also said it has received many calls.

"It's the same old story. Quite a few of them got caught without snow tires," said Tom Bennett.

"I'd say we've towed about 25 cars or better so far," he added. "The trucks are moving slowly but they don't seem to be having that much trouble."

Drifting snow blocked many secondary roads and at least five Somerset County schools were closed: North Star, Shanksville, Stony Creek, Somerset, Rockwood and Barlin-Brothers Valley.

School districts closed in Lawrence County included Laurel, Union, New Wilmington, Mohawk and Shenango.

In other parts of the state, nine inches of snow was reported in Mercer and about six in northern regions near Slippery Rock, Union City and Edinboro.

Most other areas, including Pittsburgh, Erie and Johnstown, got between two and five inches.

Only light snow was reported in St. Marys in Elk County and Coudersport in Potter County, two of the areas usually hit hardest.

At the Meadows in Washington County, thoroughbred horse racing was cancelled Monday night because of a frozen track.

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP)—Pakistani reports said Monday that India had launched a massive attack on East Pakistan, sending 12 regular divisions and other forces into battle in four sectors with air and armored support.

Pakistan radio said India launched an "all-out offensive" without declaration of war and added that it had made "dents" in Pakistani defenses.

At the United Nations in New York, Indian Ambassador Samar Sen denied the reports of an Indian attack. He said the fighting involved Pakistani regulars and East Pakistan rebel forces.

A Pakistani spokesman at the United Nations said he had been told by telephone from Islamabad, Pakistan, that 12 regular Indian divisions supported by 38 battalions of Indian border security forces had assaulted Jessore, Chittagong, Sylhet and Rangpur.

Pakistan's U.N. delegation said it was considering asking for an emergency meeting of the Security Council to deal with the situation.

The current tension between the two nations on the subcontinent arose after Pakistani federal forces put down a secessionist rebellion in East Pakistan last March. Millions of Bengali refugees fled into India. Reports of border skirmishes have been frequent since.

High military sources who refused to be identified said in Rawalpindi that the fighting did not appear to be as widespread as the radio reported. Neither the military nor the Foreign Office commented officially.

The radio account claimed 130 Indians were killed and perhaps 500 wounded in fighting around Jessore on the western border with Indian West Bengal. Pakistani casualties were put at 7 killed and 40 wounded.

The report said the battle included tank units on the ground and India's homemade Gnat jets and Russian-supplied MIG fighters in the air.

It also claimed Indians were attacking on the eastern border with Tripura at Sylhet and in Chittagong hill country to the south.

The same broadcast reported President Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan visited troops near the West Pakistani border with India and Kashmir and vowed that Pakistan will "crush the aggressor."

In New Delhi, the Indian government radio claimed East Pakistani guerrillas had wrested about 45 square miles from government control in Khulna and Jessore after a 17-day battle.

An Indian news agency quoting guerrilla sources said Pakistan lost five tanks in a battle Saturday near Mehespur, also in the Jessore district. This was the same area where Radio Pakistan reported the Indian offensive.

An Indian Defense Ministry spokesman denied the Radio Pakistan allegations that India had lost 90 soldiers in a tank battle in that area. The city lies about 10 miles from the Indian border town of Boyra, where India earlier reported shooting at Pakistani fighter planes.

A government spokesman said Indian air force Gnat jets chased away four Pakistani F86 Sabre Jets that had come into India from East Pakistan about 65 miles from Calcutta.

The Pakistan radio account was the fiercest report of East Pakistan border fighting since skirmishes erupted in earnest nearly four months ago.

Meany Denies Nixon Treated Rudely At AFL-CIO Convention

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—George Meany, denying that President Nixon was treated rudely at an AFL-CIO convention session last week, has accused the President of trying to contrive a clash for propaganda purposes.

The administration has charged the labor delegates were discourteous when Nixon spoke at the AFL-CIO convention here Friday.

But Meany, the AFL-CIO president, accused the White House of "a little lack of courtesy" of its own. "I still think we have the constitutional right to laugh," Meany said Monday of the 2,000 delegates' behavior during the Nixon speech.

Nixon himself provoked one incident by unexpectedly bolting into the crowd to shake hands, Meany said, and "I committed the cardinal sin of saying, 'Well, let's go on with the second act.' But that was my reaction," Meany said.

"I have the impression the President did not come here to make a speech. He came here to contrive a situation under which he could claim that he had been unfairly treated," Meany told the convention to frequent applause, laughter and a standing ovation.

The convention unanimously re-elected Meany to another two-year term as chief of the federation of 117 unions with nearly 14 million members.

Meany declined comment on the charges of Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally Monday that the treatment of Nixon reflected "arrogance, boorishness and discourtesy" by Meany.

Meany said Nixon was never booed or jeered, that he was applauded politely at least eight times, and only drew some laughter when he claimed his wage-price control progress was working well.

Meany confirmed he refused Nixon's request to speak the day before because it was too short notice, and that he ruled out live television coverage because cameras would have displaced 80 or 90 delegates.

Meany said the AFL-CIO followed the minutely detailed schedule laid down by the White House until Nixon himself departed from it after his speech and began shaking hands with delegates.

"When I finished a very short expression of appreciation, I turned my head and he was gone. The escort committee was sitting here and he just went right by them," Meany said.

White House aides had complained there was no escort committee.

Nixon was supposed to return to an office behind the platform, but "he turned and went into this roped-off area," Meany said. Presidential security agents themselves removed the rope, he added.

"A White House photographer appeared and there was a fellow carrying a great big enormous glaring light. The President started to mill around over there. Now at that time, after two or three minutes of that, the delegates and guests from the far end of the hall all started to converge over here, and I took the mike and said, as I have

Forge Secures Preliminary Injunction

National Forge Co. of Irvine has secured a preliminary injunction against the Independent Union of National Forge Employees against the mass picketing at the plant and the preventing of trucks from entering the plant.

Marvin L. Billow, vice president, operations, at National Forge, said Judge Robert L. Wolfe, signed the injunction at 3 p.m. Monday. Billow said a hearing on a permanent injunction would be held at 1:30 p.m. Friday in the county court house.

More than 800 members of the union struck National Forge on Saturday, Nov. 13. It was the first strike in National Forge's 56-year history.

Phillip Mong, vice president of the union, was not available for comment Monday evening.

Marvin Billow said the company was forced into seeking the injunction because customers had advised the firm that they would be forced to open legal proceedings in order to get delivery on materials from the Irvine plant.

Pickets have prevented all trucks from entering the plant.

Administrative employees at the plant are not affected by the strike, Billow said.

Santa Schedules His Visiting Hours

It's a good thing Warren County School District officials did their Thanksgiving holiday coordinating early and arranged to let all the kids out of school on Friday, Nov. 26, because that's the day Santa arrives in town!

Yessiree, folks, the red-suited gent himself will arrive in Warren at 9 a.m. on Friday and he will set up his temporary headquarters on Liberty st. at the pedestrian mall. Santa will arrive at the tail end of the annual Christmas parade which is sponsored by the Warren Merchants Association. The parade will begin at War Memorial Field, move up Cedar st. to Pennsylvania ave. east, down Pennsylvania ave. west to Hickory st., turn right on Hickory to Third ave., turn right on Third to Liberty st., right on Liberty to Second ave. and left on Second to the Liberty st. parking lot.

Most other areas, including Pittsburgh, Erie and Johnstown, got between two and five inches.

Only light snow was reported in St. Marys in Elk County and Coudersport in Potter County, two of the areas usually hit hardest.

At the Meadows in Washington County, thoroughbred horse racing was cancelled Monday night because of a frozen track.

High Court Bars Arbitrary Discrimination

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a landmark ruling the Supreme Court Monday unanimously barred arbitrary discrimination against women by legislators everywhere in the nation.

The startling decision, announced by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, was the first by the high court cloaking women with the equal-protection clause of the Constitution, the basis for earlier rulings advancing the rights of Negroes.

Burger said legislators may treat women differently from men only when the purpose is reasonable.

The decision came in a relatively obscure case from Idaho in which the father and mother of a deceased son had vied for the right to administer his estate of less than $1,000. Under state law the father had been named the administrator.

"We have concluded," Burger said, "that the arbitrary preference established in favor of males by ... the Idaho code cannot stand in the face of the 14th Amendment's command that no state deny the equal protection of the laws to any person within its jurisdiction."

Melvin Wolf, legal director of the American Civil Liberties Union which filed the brief for Mrs. Reed, said "I am moderately pleased that we won the case, but the pleasure is very qualified because we did not win on the broader grounds."

"Our purpose was to try to get the Supreme Court to declare that sexual discrimination is unconstitutional, and they have apparently declined to take that major step," Wolf said. "Please note that the court is made up of seven males. Those male judges have a vested interest. If women had been on the court, we would have seen all sex discrimination declared unconstitutional."

Last month the House passed a proposed amendment to the Constitution designed to prohibit discrimination on account of sex. Key senators disagreed about the impact of the ruling on this legislation.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., the amendment's chief sponsor in the Senate, said he is heartened by the ruling but doesn't think it makes an amendment unnecessary. Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., countered that the ruling proves an amendment is needed.

"Under the 5th and 14th amendments, any law, federal or state, making any distinction between men and women is unconstitutional unless based on reasonable grounds," he said.

Senate Okays Nomination Of Butz

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Agriculture Committee approved by a slender two-vote margin Monday the nomination of Dr. Earl L. Butz to be secretary of Agriculture, setting the stage for a bitter Senate fight.

In voting 8 to 6 to send the nomination to the Senate floor, the committee ordered the 62-year-old Purdue University dean to sell his agri-business stock.

Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, the Republican national chairman, characterized the opposition to Butz as political. But he said he counts up to 30 votes against it as of now.

Firearm Charge

FALCONER, N.Y. — A Connecticut man was arrested and charged with a misdemeanor in that he was in possession of a loaded firearm here Monday.

Charged was Stanley B. Burns, 28, of Summit rd., Prospect, Conn., who was arrested before Town Justice James Stillman at Randolph, N.Y., and fined $25 and released.

Burger announced the ruling shortly before a Senate Judiciary subcommittee approved on a 6-4 vote an Ervin substitute for the House-passed amendment.

This would prohibit any legal distinctions between men and women except "those based on physiological or functional differences." Supporters of the House-passed amendment consider the substitute so watered down that no amendment could be approved.

In another ruling the court approved the trimming of federal disability payments to injured workers whose state benefits add up to more than 80 per cent of their usual pay when combined with the federal aid.

In another action the court agreed to hear the appeal of a Georgia white man convicted of burglary who complained that Negroes had been systematically excluded from the grand jury. The court has upset several convictions of blacks when juries were all-white. The appeal by Dean Rene Peters of Muscogee County provides an interesting attempt to extend the holding to white defendants.

In the women's rights case, Mrs. Sally Reed of Boise had been denied appointment as administrator of the estate of her adopted son, Richard. She appealed on the theory that the equal-protection clause of the 14th Amendment, designed originally to protect Negroes freed by the Civil War invalidated the Idaho law giving preference to the adoptive father, Cecil Reed, her estranged husband.

The court never has interpreted the 14th Amendment this way. In fact, in cases going back to the 19th century it has rejected discrimination claims by women seeking the amendment's protection.

Burger wrote: "to give a mandatory preference of either sex over members of the other ... is to make the very kind of arbitrary legislative choice forbidden by the equal-protection clause ..."

Burger said the court consistently has recognized that the 14th Amendment does not deny to the states "the power to treat different classes of persons in different ways," but he went on "the equal-protection clause of that amendment does, however, deny to states the power to legislate that different treatment be accorded to persons placed by a state into different classes on the basis of criteria wholly unrelated to the objective of that statute."

Kinzua Country Has Visitors From 34 States, 6 Countries

The attractions of Kinzua Country this past summer were especially popular with residents from other parts of Pennsylvania, Ohio, and New York state but the information booth on Route 6, Pennsylvania Avenue West in Warren also served visitors from thirty-one other states, and from Canada, England, Spain, Australia, Germany and West Germany.

The log book kept at the booth, operated by the Kinzua Dam Vacation Bureau, shows that 59.3 per cent of the tourists who came here during July and August, were Pennsylvanians.

Travelers from Ohio accounted for 22.5 per cent of the total and visitors from New York state made up 9.4 per cent. The remaining 8.8 per cent came from many states with Florida, California, Michigan, New Jersey, Maryland, and Illinois leading the list in number of families who registered at the booth.

The booth attendants, who noted a substantial increase over the 1970 summer, recorded a total of 5,403 families who stopped for information and help. The majority of these were campers and sight-seers who were looking for places to stay and eat and things to do.

Most of the tourists who stopped for assistance were arriving through the western end of Warren so that the registration figures do not reflect the influx of visitors who drove in on the other highways to see the Kinzua Dam and reservoir and to use the facilities of the Allegheny National Forest.

The information booth personnel kept in daily touch with the public and private camp grounds throughout Warren and Forest counties so that they could advise campers on where to look for available camping space. Many of the campgrounds were full before the end of the week and visitors were then directed to other locations.

Of the total family units which stopped for information, 3,201 came to Kinzua Country from other parts of Pennsylvania. There were 1,215 families from Ohio and 507 from New York. Forty-five Canadian touring families were also noted.

Snow Depths Range From Inches To Feet

A check on state police substations in surrounding Pennsylvania and New York counties revealed that snow depths range from two inches at Ridgway, Pa. to about one foot at Falconer, N.Y.

Mt. Jewett, Pa., reported two inches and Corry police said there was about seven inches of snow in that area. The Tionesta substation reported no snow and clear roads and the Erie barracks said no snow had fallen there Monday. Mayville, N.Y., reported from eight to nine inches of snow and Jamestown said seven to eight inches had fallen in the downtown area. Other reports said 18 inches had fallen in areas immediately north of Jamestown.

Warren's weatherman, Jim Reier, said we had 23 inches of melted precipitation in the area Monday.

Two Arrested

The Warren County Sheriff's Department has listed two arrests, both made Nov. 19. Joseph A. Samarino, 61, of Erie, Pa. was arrested on a bench warrant issued after he failed to appear for a scheduled court appearance.

Robert L. Morse, 18, of Warren, according to the record, was arrested on a burglary charge. No additional details were available.

Clairton Man Faces Murder Charge

RIDGWAY—A Clairton man has been arrested on a general charge of murder following a stabbing at a hunting camp near the Village of Benetzette in Elk County, according to state police at the Ridgway substation.

Arrested was John Paul Marflak Jr., 20, of 68 E. Woodland Terrace, Clairton. Cpl. Ray F. Titler and Cpl. Gilbert Forbes of the state police made the arrest, following the incident that occurred at about 12:15 a.m. Monday.

Marflak was arraigned before District Justice Elizabeth Friedl and committed to Elk County Jail. The investigation is continuing, police said.

FREIGHTER AVAILABLE

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Pennsylvania surgeon doesn't know what to do with an old freighter he bought for $2,000. "I need a vessel about as much as I need another patient," Dr. Sidney Runyon of Lancaster, Pa., said after his bid was the only one at a dockside auction.

Our new family editor is wearing a broad smile today, a result of one of those satisfying experiences that makes a reporter conscious of the need for an alert press. While with the Sandusky Register, Jo Betz noted a proposed channelization project that would have eliminated several prime fishing miles from the Huron River. The plan was "buried" in what appeared to be a routine highway design report on U.S. Route 250.

Further digging into the story by the Register staff unearthed the story that the proposed channelization could be an ecological disaster, and prompted a series of articles about the situation.

Monday, the Ohio Highways Department announced that the plans had been redrawn to eliminate the channelization—a move that well could have been made if the reporter had listened to the "pooh-poohing" of state officials when she first questioned the plans. Good job, Jo.

Warren Borough's planning office is no place to horse around. Though some of the office employees are too sheepish to admit it they frequently work like dogs turning out the business of the burro...oops...borough.

A couple of weeks ago somebody stuck a sign on the planning office door identifying it as the "animal farm." Big bold letters ask that you do not feed or touch the animals...apparently because they're busy as bees and shouldn't be bothered.

When asked what the monkey business on the door was all about everybody clammed up...somebody later admitted it was just a lark.

The December issue of "Alfred Hitchcock's Mystery Magazine" contains a chiller inspired, according to a Jamestown, N.Y. author of the short story, by a conversation overheard at Chautauqua County Airport. Donald J. Olson, 216 Baker st., said his story "Delay in Flight" was inspired by scraps of conversation overheard last summer at the airport terminal.

The author also had stories published in the October and November issues of "Alfred Hitchcock's Mystery Magazine." The author of a number of novels in addition to numerous short stories often uses Chautauqua County settings for his writing. He is currently revising a suspense novel.

Commonwealth Will Resume Suspension Notices Friday

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Commonwealth Friday will resume mailing suspension notices to drivers who accumulated 11 points under Pennsylvania's penalty point system. Some 3,000 suspension notices have piled up in Harrisburg since a three-judge federal panel ruled Oct. 26 Pennsylvania's point suspension system must be changed.

The court said the state must allow each driver a hearing before suspending his license. Previously, his license was pulled when he had 11 points.

Officials of the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation (PennDOT) now have devised a system they think will satisfy the court. Michael Deckman, assistant attorney general, said the Commonwealth would not wait for court approval of the pre-suspension hearing system, but believes it's on the right track.

Since a previous court decision barred review of the merits of a suspension case, the new departmental hearings will be limited in scope, Deckman said. Drivers could request a hearing to correct errors only in the following instances:

- Mistaken identity, where an innocent person received a suspension intended for someone else with the same name.
- An error in computation of points.
- Failure of the Commonwealth to give proper credits that erase penalty points.
- An error on the report of conviction form, submitted by a magistrate to PennDOT.

Deckman said the court indicated to him the limited hearing system would be acceptable. However, because of the suspension notices backing up in Harrisburg, the state could not wait for a final court ruling, he said.

J.A. Trombetta, director of traffic safety in PennDOT, said the department would require an additional 25 hearing examiners to handle the new load of cases. The additional examiners would cost the state some $215,000 for their salaries and expenses.

The department already employs 30 examiners for other types of hearings, such as determining who is at fault in an accident, and whether an uninsured driver can pay accident costs. The hearings are held in 54 locations around the state.

Alcoholism Study Proposed By County Health Council

Warren is contemplating the possibility of joining other communities in order to combat problems arising from alcoholism. The approach, however, has not yet been definitely determined.

The Warren County Comprehensive Health Planning Council has approved the proposed alcoholism study to be undertaken in Warren County by the Warren, Venango, Forest and Clarion counties Mental Health, Mental Retardation Authorities, according to an announcement made by Attorney William H. Hill, chairman of the local council.

The approval came with one stipulation: that if any program is to be developed because of the study, the local council must review such a proposal before it is implemented.

The alcoholism study will concern itself with identification of the extent of the problem in Warren and the services and facilities available to meet local needs.

Dr. David K. Rice, Warren County Commissioner and member of CHP, said that the study would be considerably broader than merely concerning itself with those persons attending AA meetings. He noted that in other areas, many large industries are studying what help can be supplied the white collar worker who remains off the job due to problems of alcoholism, stressing both education and rehabilitation.

Should the study here get under way, there have been several avenues suggested such as utilizing off-duty services of trained case workers to delve more deeply into the problem through interviews. If it appears that education is partially the answer, the type of program must be determined.

Ontario Bans Snow Tires With Studs

Motorists planning to drive through Canada are warned to steer clear of the Province of Ontario if their cars are equipped with studded snow tires.

According to Ed Johnsen, Warren County Motor Club, the Pennsylvania AAA Federation has issued an alert that Canada will enforce its ban of studded snow tires on all cars. The Ontario Provincial Police have been ordered to enforce the ban regardless of the origin of the automobile, including cars registered in the United States.

Fines for a first offense range from $20 to $100.

The statewide AAA organization advised motorists traveling to that Province to either remove their studded snow tires or be certain their snow tires are the non-studded type.

Contact between the Canadian Government Travel Bureau and the Pennsylvania AAA also revealed that the Ontario government may authorize a year's exemption on enforcement for out-of-province vehicles. However, such an exemption is reportedly very uncertain at the moment. AAA, therefore, advises travelers to Canada to be in compliance with the provincial law.

Judge Denies New Trial In Crawford Fair Deaths

MEADVILLE—A federal district judge at Erie has denied a motion for a new trial against Veith Electric Co., Crawford County and the Crawford County Fair Association in the lightning deaths of two persons at the fairgrounds August 28, 1968.

Attorney Stuart A. Culbertson, attorney for the county and the fair association, reported that senior federal district Judge Joseph M. Wilson of Meadville denied the motion for a new trial. Arguments for the second trial were heard Nov. 4 at Erie.

The first trial, held in November 1970, absolved the county, the fair association and Veith Electric of responsibility in the deaths of James A. Hayes of Franklin, and Mrs. Sandra L. McKinley of Chicago, formerly of Meadville.

About 60 persons were stunned by the electrical discharge which occurred near the pony tent.

Two other original defendants, Meadville Telephone Co. (owner of the pole) and Pennsylvania Electric Co. (whose lines were attached to the pole) were removed from the original trial list for lack of evidence.

The initial trial was to fix liability for the two deaths. A second trial would have followed to assess the extent of damages to which the plaintiffs should be entitled. Plaintiffs were Donald M. McKinley, administrator for his wife's estate, and Mrs. Linda Sue Hayes, administrator for her husband's estate.

Attorney Culbertson said that attorneys for the plaintiffs had indicated that if Judge Wilson denied the motion for a new trial, they might carry it to a circuit court of appeals. Plaintiffs attorneys are from Oil City and Pittsburgh.

Western Pa. Coalition Formed Against Rehnquist

PITTSBURGH (AP) — U.S. Rep. William S. Moorhead announced Monday formation of a western Pennsylvania coalition to fight the confirmation of William H. Rehnquist to the Supreme Court of the United States.

"If I were Nick the Greek, I would not give very big odds that we would succeed, but there is still a very good chance," Moorhead said, acknowledging the lateness in forming the group.

The Senate Judiciary Committee was to vote Tuesday on whether to recommend confirmation of President Nixon's two choices for the court—

Rehnquist and Lewis F. Powell Jr.—to the full Senate.

The anti Rehnquist coalition included civil rights and labor organizations such as the NAACP, the local Americans for Democratic Action, the Allegheny County Labor Council, Teamster Local 249 and the executive committee of the YWCA.

Moorhead said he believed the coalition was the only one of its kind. It does not oppose Powell's nomination.

The group's actions, he said, would involve mostly communicating its opposition, both in writing and in person, to members of the Senate and its judiciary committee.

The coalition members claim Rehnquist is not committed to equal human rights or protection of individual rights.

"In opposing voluntary action by the Phoenix School Board to ameliorate de facto segregation, he affirmed his belief in a segregated society," Moorhead explained.

"In opposing a public accommodations law, he placed the privilege of store owners to discriminate against individuals because of race above the right of society to provide that anyone serving the public serves all the public."

Moorhead also attacked Rehnquist's views on individual rights, claiming the Supreme Court nominee favors government wiretapping without need for a warrant, denial of the right of habeas corpus to convicted persons in order to reduce the number of cases on court dockets, and favors government surveillance limited only by self-restraint.

Scotty Oilers Nominate '72 Officers

Scotty Oilers P-39 Trailer Club held its monthly meeting Sunday, Nov. 21 at Northwest Savings Hospitality Room, with President Chuck Covell presiding.

There were 24 members present and two new families introduced, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Schaefer of Warren, and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Nelson of Greenhurst, N.Y.

Officers for 1972 were nominated with election to be held at the next meeting, Dec. 19. A Christmas party will also be featured with Mrs. Marie Covell as chairman.

Bill Peterson of Jamestown, N.Y. received a special award for 100 per cent campout attendance for the 1971 season. The award was given by Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Covell. Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Foster, Kennedy, N.Y., donated a large, decorated cake.

Prize for the day went to Henry Newton of Bradford. Lunch was served by Mrs. Betty Ross and Mrs. Charlotte Lindquist.

Titusville Man Reported Fair After Accident

TITUSVILLE—A Titusville man was reported in fair condition Sunday night in the intensive care unit at St. Vincent Hospital, Erie, following a one-car accident at 4:30 a.m. Saturday on Route 19 near Interstate 90 in Summit Township, Erie County.

State police at Lawrence Park barracks said that James Curtis McKinney, 47, of 623 N. Perry st., was traveling south on Route 19, lost control of his vehicle on a patch of ice, skidded off the west berm and struck a row of guard rails with the left front portion of his car.

The rear of his vehicle then spun around causing the auto to roll onto its left side striking more guard rails. McKinney was ejected from the vehicle. The victim was taken to St. Vincent by members of the Perry Highway Hose Co. He was first reported in serious condition but was later listed as fair. He reportedly suffered multiple lacerations, possible fractures and internal injuries in the crash.

According to police his 1971 Jeep station wagon valued at $5,000 was demolished in the mishap.

Youth's Car Hits Parked Vehicle

An 18-year-old Russell youth was charged with failure to keep the right of way Monday morning after the car he was driving slid into a parked car on St. Clair st.

Warren Borough Police Officer Lynn West reported that John A. Olsen, 18, of 211 State st., Russell, was driving west on St. Clair st. around 6:30 a.m. Monday when he lost control of his car on the icy pavement and slid into a parked vehicle owned by Robert A. Jackson, 46, of 18 St. Clair st.

The Jackson car, which suffered $150 damage, was parked on the south curb and was struck in the left front fender by the Olsen car and pushed onto the curb.

Damage to Olsen's vehicle was estimated at $350.

WCEA Calls Meeting On Freeze

Teachers throughout the nation have been planning strategy to alleviate what they consider are inequities in the present wage freeze as it affects them. The Pennsylvania State Education Association has threatened to call a statewide strike if it deems the move necessary.

To formulate a local teachers' position on this issue, Warren County Education Association president Jon Carlson has called a general membership meeting for tonight at 8 p.m. in the Beaty Junior High School auditorium.

Carlson said that the members would decide at the meeting what courses of action the local group would take in the event of a statewide strike call, or optional strike call, or other PSEA moves. The members will also discuss courses of action that they themselves can take to make their views known to legislators and government officials.

Borough Taxes Due Nov. 30

Warren Borough Tax Collector Gerould Ostergard said Monday that the last day to make payments on 1971 taxes is November 30.

A five percent penalty will go into effect December 1 on any unpaid 1971 taxes except for those paying their real estate taxes on the installment plan who made their second payment on or before the date due.

Kinzua Marketing Agency Okay

The Kinzua Marketing Agency, a firm that has been calling area residents and offering them free gifts, is strictly legitimate, according to Richard H. Danzig, executive vice president of the Warren County Chamber of Commerce.

"As far as we know they're legal," Danzig said. He explained that they use a "new concept in selling" whereby the company runs a survey on the marketing area and selects the customers they want to do business with.

Each selectee is contacted via telephone and asked if he or she would like a free gift. If the answer is yes, the selectee will receive a circular in the mail with a gift number attached.

To receive the promised "free gift" each housewife must take her husband to the Kinzua Marketing Agency office in the old American Legion Building on Pennsylvania ave. west. According to Danzig, the firm requires that both spouses be present when turning in the gift number for an actual gift.

Some area residents have complained that the firm's phone calls have been vague and evasive. One woman said Monday that she has been phoned four times.

Danzig said Kinzua Marketing deals in household appliances and similar goods. There are no strings attached to the free gift. Interested customers must buy no less than $269.95 worth of goods through the company if they wish to make any purchase at all.

Kinzua Marketing is part of National Housewares Inc. a nationwide distributor of Erndako International goods. The firm is headquartered in Salt Lake City and, according to Danzig, has excellent credentials with other local chambers.

When they first contacted the Warren chamber back in September Danzig said he checked around and found there have been no complaints about the company. "Better Business Bureau has a file on them," he said, "but they're apparently legitimate."

Let's All Hear Reasons School Isn't Open

The public has been more than fair with the general contractor and the school district on the issue of the South Street Elementary School. We feel that we have likewise been fair in our news coverage.

There is reason to believe, however, that the feeling hasn't been mutual.

The school on which construction started in the summer of 1970, is not now complete, was not completed by the first target date, will not, according to latest reports, be completed by the present target date of Dec. 28, and, when finally ready sometime next year, will have cost the district much time and money in busing costs for the pupils now attending Clarendon School. Other results of the failure to have the building completed by now include kindergarten classes being held in a church basement so these very young children would not have to endure the bus ride to Clarendon and great frustration on the part of parents whose children shouldn't have to be bused and who must daily watch them drive off on a trip they shouldn't have to be making. The district chose busing as a lesser evil compared to double classes. We approve the choice, but we also disapprove of extending it.

We have heard that the Vo-Tech High School, a much larger project begun at the same time as the South Street project and now fully completed, is of a different type of construction, and that is why it could be built sooner than could South Street. Granted, the construction differences could cause some differences in the completion timetable; but six months longer to complete a smaller building seems to be stretching the credibility gap quite a bit if the difference in time is laid entirely to the difference in construction type. When one comes down to it, a school is a school is a school.

But before we point a finger, if it should be necessary, we want to know all the facts. And we want the parents concerned, and the community, to hear them first-hand.

We urge that a public hearing to explain the delay in the opening of South Street School be scheduled immediately. But instead of being a shouting match or an exercise in theoretical phraseology, we urge that it be a good working session.

To be so, data should be available for inspection beforehand concerning when orders were placed, when work was started on any given segment of construction, when materials were received, when and how many workers were placed on any given job, and similar items.

We would expect that efforts to expedite orders for construction materials and furniture and fixtures would be documented.

We would expect that anybody who had anything to say would be there to say it.

We would expect that out of this hearing some responsibility for the present situation could be fixed; if that responsibility is unavoidable, at the least the parents of the children concerned can verify this for themselves at the hearing.

And we would expect that a realistic completion date could be set for this project sometime soon—and adhered to.

White House Employment Agency

By Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON—The news that the FBI has been investigating CBS correspondent Daniel Schorr caused some trepidation among Washington journalists early last week.

But then the White House explained it all. Mr. Schorr was being investigated, a spokesman said, because he was being considered for a high government job, and the White House wanted to run a check on him before they offered him the position.

Well, all of us relaxed when we heard the explanation, not only because it made sense, but also because it showed that the Administration harbored no ill feelings. Mr. Schorr has been a consistent critic of Administration policies and if he was being considered for a high government job, that meant any of us could be tapped for public service.

A group of correspondents were sitting in the White House press room the other day, chuckling over the latest White House press release, when Clyde Mothballer of the Kinzu Telegram Ledger was called to the phone.

He came back white-faced and said: "That was my mother. The FBI was just at her house and wanted to know what library books I borrowed when I was a kid."

"Congratulations, Mothballer," the AP man said, "that means you're up for an important government job."

"I don't know," Clyde said. "The Administration got awfully mad at me about my articles on the Supreme Court appointments. As a matter of fact someone from the White House called my editor and suggested I be sent to Moscow where I understood the government better."

"Don't be silly, Mothballer," the Boston Globe man said, "the Administration doesn't hold grudges. I wouldn't be surprised if they made you secretary of the treasury."

"You would think they would ask me if I wanted a job first," Mothballer said. "They wanted to surprise you," the Washington Post correspondent assured him. "To think, one of our boys will be in the Cabinet!"

"The FBI man didn't say anything to my mother about a Cabinet appointment. But he did want to know if I ever played with Daniel Ellsberg as a kid," Mothballer said.

"It's just a smokescreen, Clyde," the Los Angeles Times man said. "They always ask that when they're considering somebody for secretary of defense."

"My mother said they also went around to the neighbors and asked them if I had ever had any strong feelings about Cuba."

"That means you're being put up for head of the CIA," a UPI photographer said. "With Dick Helms being moved upstairs, they're probably looking for a new chief of operations."

"It's possible," Mothballer said, "but my mother said she caught two of the FBI men going through her trash basket last night."

"That means you're up for an environment job," the NBC man shouted.

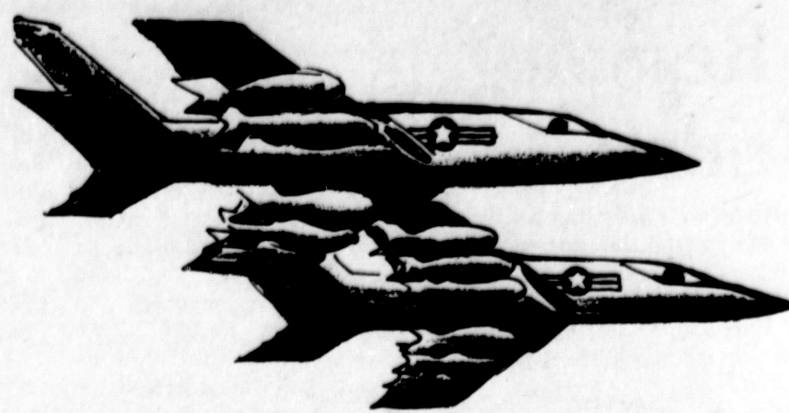

"I wish I could be as optimistic as you guys," Mothballer said. "Suppose the FBI was asking questions to intimidate me?"

The Chicago Sun-Times man was shocked. "Bite your tongue, Mothballer," he cried, "the Nixon Administration would never stoop to a trick like that, even if they disagreed with every word you wrote."

"He's correct, Clyde," the Newsweek correspondent said. "Atty. Gen. Mitchell would resign before he'd allow the White House to intimidate a newspaperman."

"J. Edgar Hoover wouldn't stand for it," the New York Post man put in.

"I guess you're right," Mothballer nodded. "I'd better call my mother back and reassure her. She just doesn't understand how Nixon's people operate."

PENNSYLVANIA STORY

Intriguing Decision

By Mason Denison

HARRISBURG—The decision of Secretary of Public Welfare Helene Wohlgemuth to "decentralize" functions and operations of the department into four prime regions throughout the state is of more than passing interest—and decidedly intriguing in several respects.

Under Mrs. Wohlgemuth's plan each of the four new regions will be in charge of a regional deputy secretary, but to quote the Keystone State's welfare chief: "And each will be the Secretary of Public Welfare in his area."

If she is to be taken at her word this means there will be five individuals running the welfare show in Pennsylvania—and if each is to be "the Secretary of Public Welfare in his area," this means there could, obviously, be five different welfare programs in operation in Pennsylvania.

If each is to enjoy the status of being "Secretary of Public Welfare"—each then is to be absolute, or king, in his respective area.

Or, didn't Mrs. Wohlgemuth mean exactly what she said—after all, we're quoting from her own statement on the subject.

Taking her at her word, this could mean four local welfare "kingdoms" throughout the state, each running its own show (if each is to have the power and authority of the Secretary—as she has enunciated).

Under such circumstance there could be four—or five—different set of standards, depending upon the "whims" of the individual "secretary" running each region.

In other words, what might be applicable in one region might not be applicable in another under the multi-secretaryship concept.

Sound ridiculous? Perhaps—but let's go back a few years.

For example, prior to the 1950's, each of the 17 state-owned mental hospitals operated under a similar system of "decentralization" or local autonomy.

In those days each mental hospital was classified as an individual kingdom unto itself. The board of trustees and the superintendent of that particular institution ran the show completely—to the exclusion of the Secretary of Welfare, and for that matter the Governor.

What applied in the case of one mental hospital did not necessarily apply with any of the other 16. Admissions standards were different, treatment methods were different, personnel politics differed, etc.—from hospital to hospital (from kingdom to kingdom).

Upshot of this condition finally: removal of the boards of trustees of the mental hospitals from an administrative to an advisory capacity, placing unquestioned overall jurisdictional authority in one central point—the Department of Public Welfare.

Idea behind this of course was to provide a semblance of uniformity, authority to control that uniformity, and in the end bring all facilities up to highest standards possible—as opposed to one with high standards and another with low standards, etc.

It was something like this in the Department of Labor and Industry with its "decentralization" program—giving inspectors seemingly autonomous jurisdiction within their respective regions, reaching the absurd pinnacle at one point where a boiler inspector would approve a project in his region while an inspector in an adjoining region with an identical project would disapprove his.

Decentralization is fashionable verbiage at the moment. Unquestionably it does have a place within the world of bureaucracy—providing decentralization is centralized from the control and jurisdiction standpoints!

ON THE RIGHT

Scientists At Play

By William F. Buckley Jr.

I note, as others have done with great disappointment, that 16 days have gone by since we triggered a nuclear explosion in Amchitka, and a) a tidal wave has not engulfed Hawaii, b) a flood has not devastated the happy people of Polynesia, and c) the seal population in Alaska is reported up, not down. All of which reminds us what twaddle the experts speak, when ideology takes hold of their minds and shapes their behavior.

Insufficient attention has been given to one of the few systematic efforts to discipline scientists who zoom about like Hell's Angels in the world of controversy. What happened is that Mr. Albert Wohlstetter, an associate of RAND Foundation and the University of Chicago, having carefully analyzed Safeguard when it was being debated in the spring of 1969, gave testimony concerning it. He was startled not that his recommendations were opposed by men of large reputation in the scientific world, but that some of the arguments they were using were arguments which he knew to be utterly irresponsible.

So he approached the Operations Research Society of America (ORSA), a small professional group which concerns itself with "professional quantitative analysis of interactions within systems susceptible of such analysis" and asked it to put together a committee to study some of the testimony that had been given about Safeguard. An ad hoc committee on professional standards was set up, and in September the journal released the results of researches conducted by six eminently qualified men, four of them former presidents of ORSA. Concerning Safeguard itself, members of the tribunal were divided. Concerning the behavior of some of the academic critics of Safeguard, the tribunal was absolutely unanimous.

The committee's prose is not very tangy, but the "summary of findings" is pretty straightforward: "The evidence supports the disturbing conclusion that when prominent experts outside the Administration supported their opinions on Safeguard deployment with arguments or results of an operations research nature these analyses were often inappropriate, misleading, or factually in error. Moreover, in many instances, elementary standards for proper presentation of results to permit verification and meaningful dialogue were not met."

An independent expert translates the above passage as follows: "A careful reading discloses that George Rathjens, professor of political science at MIT, systematically exhibited behavior that could conservatively be called slippery, and some would describe as simply dishonest. That Jerome Wiesner, president of MIT, is given to shooting from the hip in regard to such matters as whether official Department of Defense spokesmen did or did not change their threat estimates. And that Ralph Lapp, a prominent technical publicist of the anti-military complex, is constructively unintelligent."

Rathjens and Wiesner fired off an omnibus complaint which centers on the charge that the ORSA group had no business passing judgment on their performance, because after all they are not members of ORSA. That point was neatly handled by Mr. Alain Enthoven, who was an Assistant Secretary of Defense for Systems Analysis in the Johnson Administration. "I thought that the Rathjens-Wiesner letter objecting to the committee was extremely arrogant," he wrote in a letter to the New York Times. "Imagine Linus Pauling objecting to a critical examination of his theories on Vitamin C by the medical profession on the grounds that he isn't a member."

No one has any right to expect that a scientist has any particularly useful views on, say, music. But a scientist, and even a political scientist, has been trained to think, has been trained in the scientific method, and has been trained to know how evidence is accumulated, and what it is that one can say with certitude, and how much more there is that cannot be said

Humphrey Ready To Run Again

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON—As sure as his middle name is Horatio, Hubert Humphrey will be in the thick of the battle when the Democrats assemble in Miami next July to choose a presidential nominee.

This is not what he had intended to do. After he recovered from his hairbreadth defeat in 1968, he took aside his running mate, Sen. Ed Muskie, and encouraged him to seek the nomination in 1972.

Humphrey thought Muskie would make the best "unity candidate" and urged him to test the sentiment on the political hustings. Muskie made a few political forays and came back discouraged. The only interest, he reported to Humphrey, was in Sen. Ted Kennedy.

This changed dramatically, however, after the Chappaquiddick tragedy. Muskie suddenly replaced Kennedy as the favorite.

True to his word, Humphrey got busy in the backrooms trying to unite Democratic leaders behind Muskie. It would take a united front, he argued, to defeat Richard Nixon in 1972.

But the unity campaign failed. The first to balk was Sen. George McGovern, Humphrey's former next-door neighbor, who told HHH bluntly: "Muskie isn't taking."

with certitude.

The trouble is obvious. These men are politicized, and they come first to a conclusion, and then they harness their discipline in support of it. I espied a grownup professor of history, would you believe it, instructing a gathering of thousands the other day on developments in Red China by quoting from the works of Felix Green! He might as well have been reporting on the history of the Third Reich by quoting from the work of Joseph Goebbels. One wonders that the whole class should labor so effectively to undermine the prestige of the profession they labored so hard to join.

Soon a free-for-all began to develop over the Democratic presidential nomination. Inevitably Humphrey, the old political warhorse himself, got a whiff of the battlesmoke.

He has lost none of his old bounce. He moves at the same furious pace, attacking every task with sheer relish, still believing he can crowd an hour's work into every 30 minutes. He exudes the same eternal optimism, the same zest for life, the same love for all humanity. At age 60, he still has the remarkable boyish buoyancy he brought to Washington 23 years ago.

He scarcely surprised intimates, therefore, when he notified them on Labor Day that he would toss his battered old political hat into the ring. One of them, playing the devil's advocate, objected.

"You're a loser," he said. Shot back Humphrey: "The first time I ran for mayor of Minneapolis, I lost. The second time I won. I lost my first bid for the vice presidential nomination, but I won it the second time. When I sought the presidential nomination in 1960, I lost. But I won it the second time. I also lost my first race for President. But next time, I'll win."

YELLOW PAGES

Telephone companies across the nation, exploiting their virtual monopoly in Yellow Pages advertising, are soaking their customers for every nickel the traffic will bear.

This is the conclusion we have reached after closely examining the confidential "Rates and Data" book published by the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. as a price guide for its 23 operating companies.

The rates book reveals that businessmen in different cities pay vastly different prices for the same advertising. The only rule of thumb, it seems, is to charge the various business communities whatever they will tolerate.

In Frankfort, Ky., for example, merchants must pay $552 for a quarter-page "display" ad with distribution in 23,000 directories. The same ad in Fairbanks, Alaska, which also has a 23,000 distribution, costs only $384.

Businessmen in Jonesboro, Ark., pay $540 to place their quarter-page ads in 22,000 directories. Their colleagues in Miles City, Mont., pay $384 for the same ad and the exact distribution.

Elsewhere, $386.40 in Neosho, Mo., buys a quarter-page ad in 7,000 directories. For $2,405, merchants in Milledgeville, Ga., get the same ad carried in 13,000 directories.

Not only do Yellow Pages rates vary from state to state, but they also vary from city to city within the same state.

In Alabama, for example, businessmen in Albertville pay $552 for a quarter-page ad in 17,000 directories. The same sum buys the same ad in 22,000 directories in the Auburn-Opelika area 145 miles to the south. In Florida, a Winter Haven merchant pays $864 for a quarter-page ad in 26,000 directories. Yet 90 miles away in Fort Pierce, businessmen get the same ad in an additional thousand directories (27,000 total) for only $552.

AT&T's explanation for the capricious rate structure: prices are established by the local companies whose printing costs and other "problems" vary according to location.

Businessmen who wish to attract telephone customers, meanwhile, must use directory advertising. In most cases, they have nowhere to turn except to the company which publishes the local Yellow Pages.

Despite the monopolistic nature of directory advertising, furthermore, the practice is almost totally unregulated. No federal agency oversees the business, and California is the only state which bothers with any regulation at all.

Reaching For The Ring

By Tom Wicker

NEW YORK—Whether or not the Democrats in congress can ram through their plan to have the federal government pay for their general election campaign next year, their party and its supporters are facing a complex, perhaps unresolvable problem in the pre-convention primary campaigns. There are just too many Democratic presidential candidates competing for the Democratic dollar.

Already, in the defunct candidacies of Harold Hughes, Birch Bayh and Fred Harris, about $1 million probably has been drained off the Democratic potential; and while some "political education" no doubt has resulted, it would be hard to make the case that the game so far has been worth the candle.

Looking ahead to March 15, the day after the first primary in New Hampshire, it would be fairly easy to suppose that the remaining "left-wing" candidates—George McGovern, John Lindsay, Eugene McCarthy and probably Ms. Shirley Chisholm—might by then have spent cumulatively upwards of another $3 million. That would be a total of about $4 million, with the probable net result, at best, of holding Edmund Muskie to a narrow and unimpressive victory in his backyard.

The picture is not much better on the right of the spectrum. In an arbitrary left-right division, Muskie would have to be considered a competitor for moderate-to-conservative Democratic dollars, with Hubert Humphrey, Henry Jackson, Wilbur D. Mills and Sam Yorty (not to mention the unclassifiable George Wallace). Oddly, enough, knowledgeable fund-raisers believe Muskie—the front-runner in the polls—is hurting the most in this competition; Humphrey's ability to tie up traditional Democratic money men, and Jackson's popularity with big labor, are major Muskie problems.

Assuming that the right will spend more or less equally with the left, the Democrats conceivably could blow as much as $8 million just to get to the point of an indecisive Muskie victory in New Hampshire. After that, the really expensive primaries—Florida and California, in particular—will have to be gone through.

If Muskie scores big victories in the early going, Jackson and Mills will be forced out and Humphrey may well pull back from a confrontation; as for Sam Yorty, he is taken seriously only by Sam Yorty and William Loeb, the conservative New Hampshire publisher—a pair that deserve each other. But the problems of the left would not be much eased by such Muskie primary victories.

In the first place, it is altogether likely that one or more of the leftist candidates—McGovern, Lindsay, McCarthy or Ms. Chisholm—will stay the course all the way to the convention, even if Muskie is a consistent primary winner. In the second place, the powerful, voluble and well-heeled Democratic left is not likely to let the nomination go to Muskie—or Humphrey—without a sustained effort to impose at least some of its attitudes upon him and his campaign.

That being the case, it is sound paper logic that the candidates of the left should get together and agree among themselves (a) that each would run only in primaries where he would be strongest, thus putting the left's best foot forward everywhere; (b) that the ultimate delegate strength of all would be pooled at the convention in favor of (c) the individual who had shown the most strength and had the best chance to head off Muskie and defeat President Nixon.

That is sound paper logic, but probably a political pipedream (aside from the question whether the best man to head off Muskie necessarily would be also the best man to defeat Nixon). Human nature, personal rivalries and natural ambitions would almost surely prevent consummation of such an unprecedented pact.

The lingering McGovern-McCarthy coolness, deriving from the 1968 campaign, is one factor. For another, McGovern and Mayor Lindsay scarcely know one another, and don't seem to care. The ambitious young men around the mayor—probably Lindsay himself—would be unlikely to settle for a co-operative candidacy instead of a direct grab for what Lyndon Johnson used to call "the brass ring."

These men and Ms. Chisholm, moreover, do not stand for precisely the same things, nor appeal to the same persons; they are by no means interchangeable parts. Some of the old Kennedy partisans around McGovern have little use for Eugene McCarthy; nor could every clean Gene Man Swallow McGovern, much less what one of them recently referred to as "a rich Yalie" like Mayor Lindsay. Ms. Chisholm is personally impressive, and her candidacy would offer some rich satisfactions to blacks and militant women, but—practically speaking—it still is one more division of the left.

All this is causing considerable soul-searching and strategic cerebration among contributors and workers on the Democratic left. Before all is said and done, their financial and other pressures may be felt by one or more of the candidates now preparing for the race.

THIS IS THE PLACE WHERE 400,000 KIDS WERE POISONED LAST YEAR.

The home. Every year 400,000 children swallow something toxic in their own homes. About 500 die. And most of them are under five years old.

Most accidental poisonings could be prevented if we kept all dangerous substances truly out of reach. It seems obvious, but how many of us can honestly say we do?

Medicines are stored in an unlocked cabinet. Polishes, cleaning agents, bleaches are kept on open shelves. Paints and drain cleaners sit within easy reach in garage or basement.

The American Medical Association estimates that today there are over 250,000 household products or medicines on the market that could cause poisoning if mis-used. Most of them are packaged in bright, attractive colors just asking the inquisitive child to feel and touch and taste.

An aerosol can of hair spray is harmless in normal use. But pressed repeatedly in restricted surroundings it can cause rapid death. An electric train smoke pellet contains enough kerosene if chewed before swallowing to cause chemical pneumonia.

It's easy enough to frighten parents with facts like these, but what can we do to prevent tragedies? To start with, we can do the obvious:

Keep all the household chemicals, the patent medicines, the cosmetics, the paints, kerosene, pesticides, locked in cabinets that are high off the ground. And don't underestimate your child's ability to climb.

Leave toxic materials in original containers so you have antidote instructions.

Throw away all unused medicines.

Keep syrup of Ipecac on hand to induce vomiting. (But be sure to call the doctor first. Not every case of poisoning should be treated by forced vomiting.)

There are poison control centers in Erie, Johnstown, Latrobe, Pittsburgh and Sharon. In an emergency, ask the local operator for the telephone number of the center nearest you.

And remember: even though your three year old may sometimes astonish you with his profound statements, he is after all only three. That's not very old. If you can still make mistakes at your age, so can he at his.

If you would like free literature on preventing accidental poisonings, write us at One Smithfield, Dept. CP, Pittsburgh, Pa. 15222. After all, if you're healthy, we're healthy. That's what we're in business for.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 14-year-old daughter Betty looked depressed and seemed unusually quiet all through dinner. She ate almost nothing. I knew something was wrong and I hoped she'd tell me. She didn't, so at bedtime I went to her room and asked what was the matter. She broke down and confessed tearfully that she had done a terrible thing. She started a rumor that a girl in her class who had been absent for two weeks was away having an abortion.

The absent girl returned today and someone told her about the rumor. She became so ill she had to be taken home. Betty is a wreck. She says she doesn't know why she did it. She will do anything to get it off her conscience. What CAN she do? You know how hard it is to put down a false rumor once it gets started. Please advise. — Need Counsel

DEAR N.C.: There is only one way to get this matter straightened around. Betty should go at once to the girl and her parents, confess that it was she who started the rumor and ask them if they can possibly forgive her. She should then go to each person to whom she told the lie and confess that she made up the story. I agree, false rumors die hard — because people who start them rarely have the courage to confess. I hope your daughter learned a lesson that will stay with her the rest of her life.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a good cook but I'm no magician. I can't wave a magic wand over a four-pound roast and make it big enough for a family of six plus three extra people. Why can't my husband get this through his head?

Clyde works for a big company and someone is always in town, either a customer or a purchasing agent. He also has a couple of free-loading brothers who have a habit of dropping by Clyde's office just as he is leaving for home. They tag along and of course I have to ask them to eat with us. What else can I do at six o'clock?

When it's the brothers I open up another can of beans and add more potatoes to the hash, but when it's a customer or a purchasing agent I have to give the kids peanut butter sandwiches in the kitchen. I think this is very unfair.

Is it unreasonable to ask a husband to phone first? Even a half hour's notice would help. It would at least give me a chance to comb my hair. I've asked him a dozen times. Maybe if he sees himself in the paper he'll get the message. Thanks, friend. — Sue-Prized

DEAR SUE: From now on put the burden on Clyde. Tell him if he brings home unexpected guests you aren't going to do one thing different — the meal will be served as planned, and the kids will stay at the table. No apologies, either. Just a small announcement. "Smaller portions, everybody. We have unexpected guests." But about your hair, Kiddo. You COULD comb it just for HIM, couldn't you?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 24. My husband is 10 years my senior. We have a beautiful home in the suburbs and two lovely children. Unfortunately, our younger child, a boy, was born with a harelip and a double cleft palate. The doctor said it was the most severe case he had seen in his 20 years of practice.

The boy has had two operations and he doesn't look bad at all. One side of his nose is a little pushed in but when he is five years old he will have a third operation. The doctor says he will then be nearly normal in appearance.

I realize it is a blow to a man's ego to have a son with a birth defect, but it's not the boy's fault. It breaks my heart the way he is ignored by his father. I would like to have another baby but my husband says absolutely not. He is afraid I might have another "deformed kid." — as he puts it.

Sometimes I become so depressed over my husband's attitude that I feel like leaving him. Please tell me what to do. — LAST RESORT

DEAR L.R.: Your husband is far more defective than the child. He needs counseling — and he needs it at once. Ask your pediatrician to suggest a therapist who is experienced in helping parents of children with congenital defects. Not only is your husband making himself miserable, but he is ruining his marriage and damaging the boy emotionally.

Holy Redeemer Church Scene Of Hay-Dombeck Vows

Katherine Marie Dombek became the bride of David William Hay in a double ring ceremony November 13, 1971 at Holy Redeemer Church, with the Rev. Joseph Seyboldt, pastor of the church, officiating. Mrs. Chester Coleman played traditional music for the noon ceremony, and James Eldridge was soloist.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dombek, 14 Swiss street, Warren. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Hay, 62609 Orange road, South Bend, Indiana.

The altar of the church was decorated with vases of white mums, with a bouquet before the front altar carrying out the colors of the wedding party.

As the bride was escorted to the altar by her father, she was dressed in a floor length gown of Satapeau, traditional in style, with a basque waist and full skirt, tucked at the sides with Satapeau roses. The neckline of the gown was a modified scoop edged with tiny seed pearls and Alencon lace. The sleeves were slim and pointed at the wrist. The skirt ended in a cathedral length train.

The headpiece of the cathedral length silk illusion veil was a profile style trimmed with Alencon lace and seed pearls. She carried white rose cascade bouquet with purple star flowers.

Mrs. Calvin Nichols, Clarendon, was chosen matron of honor for her sister. She was dressed in a royal purple velvet A-line floor length gown and carried a purple aster nosegay, with olive green wheat and greens.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Edward McElwain, Erie; Mrs. Robert Minor, Grove City; Mrs. Gary Smith, Pittsburgh; and Nancy Bleech, Warren. They were dressed in gowns identical to that of the matron of honor.

Christine Nichols, a niece of the bride, was chosen flower girl. She was dressed in miniature to the adult attendants, and wore a single purple aster with olive green wheat and green leaves in her hair. Her bouquet was a miniature of the adult attendants.

Michael Nichols, a nephew of the bride, was ringbearer. He carried a white satin pillow trimmed with lace and pearls, which had been handmade by the grandmother of the bridegroom.

Earl Hay, New Paris, Indiana was best man. Ushers were Robert Hay, South Bend, Indiana; Donald Frier, Winter Haven, Florida; Jim Olgovlie, Taylorsville, Indiana; James Dombek, a nephew of the bride, Warren.

A reception for the newlyweds was held at the Jackson Valley Country Club, with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Henning acting as master and mistress of ceremony. Reception aides were Debbie Dombek, a niece of the bride, and Connie Kocur, a cousin of the bride.

After returning from a honeymoon in the Poconos, the couple is to reside in Easton Park, Florida after Nov. 27.

The bride is a graduate of Warren Area High School, and before her wedding, was an employee of New Process Company.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Purdue University, and is employed by McAsphalt Company, Lakeland, Florida. He served in the United States Army as a lieutenant.

The bride was honored before the wedding with a luncheon at the Allegheny Hotel by Mrs. Alberta Nichols, Mrs. Susan Minor, Mrs. Paul Henning, and Mary Blum. Employees of the Charting Department at New Process honored the bride-to-be at a luncheon at the Blue Manor.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. R.C. Munch, 617 Conewango ave., Warren, have announced the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Stephani Kai, to Daniel James Russo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Russo, 309 Hazel st., Warren.

Miss Munch is a 1970 graduate of Warren Area High School and attended Robert Morris College.

Mr. Russo is a 1970 graduate of Warren Area High School and is employed by the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation.

A December wedding has been planned.

Grace United Methodist W.S.C.S. Meets, Elects Slate Of 1972 Officers

The Women's Society of Christian Service of Grace United Methodist Church met on Tuesday evening November 16 in Fellowship Hall. Prior to the meeting, Mrs. Donald Anderson, pianist, played several selections.

The devotional period was led by Mrs. Byron Gillfillan. She used "Thanksgiving" as her theme, reading several selected Bible verses and giving several short poems. She spoke of what Thanksgiving means to children, both past and present; what it can and should mean to us in these modern times.

The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Ralph VanOrd, president. Plans were made for Circle personnel and programs for 1972. Martha Bartoo, secretary of missionary education, announced a Family Missions series has been planned for four Sunday evenings, starting on Feb. 27. These meetings are to be in co-operation with the Commission on Missions of the church. Mrs. Howard Smith, representative to the Warren Council of Church Women United announced the UNICEF project was very successful in our church. She thanked Mrs. Marcia Larson and the members of the Saeger Brown Circle for their help. She also spoke of the next meeting of the Church Women United which is to be Dec. 7. This meeting is to mark the 50th anniversary of the group. There is to be an ingathering of items for the patients at the State Hospital.

Mrs. T.R. Sponslor gave her report as delegate to the Kane District W.S.C.S. meeting on Oct. 20 in St. Mary's.

Mrs. Norman Johnson reported a great many articles of children's clothing have been completed in the sewing group. Action was taken to send these garments to Pricella Wahu in Kenya, Africa.

Martha Bartoo, secretary of Committee on Nominations, presented the slate of officers for 1972 including president, Mrs. Ralph VanOrd; vice-president, Mrs. Byron Gillfillan; secretary, Mrs. H. Lee Griffin; treasurer, Mrs. Perry Sweet.

For The Holidays -- Cranberry Fruit Sauce

CRANBERRY FRUIT SAUCE

The bright red cranberries coming to market now are just right for using in your favorite recipe. Chop and add these merry little berries to your pancake batter.

CRANBERRY ALL-PURPOSE FRUIT SAUCE

(Makes about 4 cups)
1 cup granulated sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 cinnamon stick
2 cups orange juice
2 cups Ocean Spray fresh

cranberries, rinsed and drained
1 cup finely chopped, peeled, pitted and cored fruit (apples, oranges or lemons)
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
In a saucepan combine sugar and cornstarch. Add cinnamon stick. Gradually stir in orange juice. Add drained cranberries, fruit and nuts. Cook while stirring over low heat until sauce bubbles and thickens. Simmer 5 minutes. Serve warm or chilled over waffles, pancakes, pound cake, ice cream or pudding.

A tureen dinner was held by members of St. Joseph's Altar Society before its recent November meeting. Plans were completed for the Christmas Bazaar, to be held Dec. 4, and Dec. 5. The Christmas dinner for the group is to be held Dec. 9 at the Allegheny Hotel. Members may call Mrs. Frank Bauer, 726-0693, for reservations.

The Thursday Featherweights of the YWCA are to meet Wednesday this week because of the Thanksgiving holiday. They are to meet at the YWCA at 1:30 p.m.

The Ladies Auxiliary to VFW Post 631 is to meet Tuesday night this week because of the Thanksgiving holiday. They are to meet at 7:30 p.m. in the post hall.

The Home League of the Salvation Army is to meet on the second floor of the citadel today at 7:30 p.m. The program is to be on Education, with Lucille Baxter as leader. The topic is to be "Giving out of Gratitude." Hostesses are to be Charlotte Lindquist and Lida Lounsbury. The meeting has been changed because of the Thanksgiving holiday.

RECEIVES 63-YEAR JEWEL

Mrs. Tom Bright, 1404 Pennsylvania avenue, east, received her 63-year jewel from the Lady Warren Rebekah Lodge 209. Mrs. Bright, who was 86 years old in October, has been a member of the Rebekahs for 63 years, many of which were with the Lady Warren Chapter. Presenting her with the pin is Erma Eckardt, treasurer and past Noble Grand of the Warren Chapter. An open house was held for Mrs. Bright recently, with guests present from the Lady Warren Chapter. The open house committee was in charge of Charlotte Lindquist, current Noble Grand, and her committee composed of DeAnn King, vice-grand; Mildred Nollinger and Esther Christensen. Youth of First-Salem U.M. Church Plan Summer Work-Pleasure Trip

The Youth Fellowship of First-Salem United Methodist Church is planning a year of learning and fellowship around a proposed summer excursion through the Western United States.

The trip is to include stopping at several mission fields for a couple of days each, to work as volunteers, doing whatever needs to be done. They plan to work at a mission to American Indians in South Dakota and at a Mexican-American Mission in New Mexico. They also plan to visit a mission hospital and school in Kentucky. By going to these places where the church is at work, the young people are to get a chance to understand the nature and function of Christian Missions in the modern world.

Working at the missions, it is hoped, will give the young people a sense of being a real part of God's community in service to humanity. The sponsors of the trip hope they will carry that feeling into their own lives back in Warren, making them valuable implements of service in their own communities.

Besides the work, there is to be a great deal of sightseeing as a planned part of the trip. While a complete itinerary is not yet ready, some of the places they hope to see are Yellowstone Park, the Mormon Tabernacle, the Great Salt Lake, Carlsbad Caverns, the Astro-Dome and New Orleans.

Part of the value in such a project is getting young people working together for a common goal, in this case raising funds for the trip. However, it also gives the young people a feeling of "community" with other young people and a realization of oneness in living. It demonstrates the common sense it makes for people to work together in the world for the best of all possible worlds for all men.

The group's first project is to be the selling of Sylvania light bulbs. The bulbs come in packages of six and sell for $2.

The group hopes to raise their first $500 with this sale. The selling is to begin November 20 and continue until December 19.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Reagle, 105 Hemlock drive are the coordinators for this trip. They both serve the First-Salem Church in the capacity of Youth Directors. Under their direction, the group has set up a "service point system" of eligibility for the trip. Each young person going must earn a stated number of points in church and community service before he can go. This is designed for putting the responsibility for going or not going in the hands of each individual young person.

Further details are available by calling Dave or Cheryl Reagle at 723-6168.

Thanksgiving Services

Ecumenical

The Emanuel Church of Christ, the Epworth United Methodist Church, the Church of God and the First-Salem United Methodist Church are to conduct a combined Thanksgiving Service on Wednesday, Nov. 24 at 7:30 p.m. at Epworth United Methodist Church. This is an annual cooperative effort in Christian encounter by the above named churches.

The Rev. Peter N. Holm of First-Salem United Methodist is bringing the message. The public is cordially invited to attend this service.

First Lutheran

The Rev. Bailey D. Herrington, pastor, First Lutheran Church, 109 West Third avenue, announces the annual Thanksgiving Day Service, Thursday, Nov. 25, 9:30 a.m., is to be a family service titled, "What's In Your Thanksgiving Bag?" In this family service, every person is to be actively involved. Upon entering the church, everyone will receive a paper bag full of surprises and be instructed as to what to do with each surprise. The bags were filled by members of the Senior High Youth.

There will be a singspiration of songs expressing gratitude for our home and country, and for the good news of the gospel. Shandra Herrington will tell a story especially for the children. "Thanksgiving is Everywhere." The Senior Choir, under the direction of Mr. Floyd A. Williams, will sing a special anthem of praise to God—"Te Deum in E Flat."

Herbert H. Woodward, Mrs. Richard Caldwell will play the organ prelude "Rise Up My Heart With Gladness." J.S. Bach.

There is to be something good to eat, prepared by Mrs. Marvin Billow, Mrs. John Bimber and Mrs. Frederick Olson.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

Christian Science

Thanksgiving Day services are to be attended by Christian Scientists throughout the area.

The service at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 312 Market st., which is open to the public, is scheduled for Thursday, Nov. 25 at 10:30 a.m.

Hymns of gratitude are a traditional part of the service. Music for the occasion is to include "Thanksgiving" by G.O'Connor-Morris, which is to be sung by the soloist, Mrs. Margaret Drivas, accompanied by the organist, Mrs. Shirlee Wright.

A distinctive aspect of the annual Christian Science Thanksgiving Service is the individual expression of gratitude by members of the congregation. No collections are taken.

"To those leaning on the sustaining infinite, to-day is big with blessings," one of the citations to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy states.

The service which is to be conducted by Mrs. Thelma Ferver, the First Reader and Mr. George Ferver, Second Reader, also includes a passage from the Bible.

Local members are inviting friends and neighbors to attend.

If the Shoe Fits...

Footsaver Education
LIKE PUTTY IN THE HANDS

At the next opportunity, gently feel the foot of an infant or small child under two years of age. You will be amazed at its softness—like putty in the hands—at its relative lack of bony structure and firmness. Then realize how easy it would be for any kind of constricting covering—even a shoe—foot—to distort the shape of that yielding bit of foot flesh. That is why it is so very important to maintain freedom of pressure around a child's foot, especially during those early formative years of foot growth. Blanket sleepers and "stretchies" that are too short for a growing infant can deform the toes and feet at that early age, just as too-tight shoes can injure feet at a later age. We at Valone's understand and appreciate the importance of proper shoe-fitting and invite you to let us safeguard the foot health of your family.

An Open Letter to President Richard M. Nixon

The Wage Board rulings have been particularly unjust for the nation's 2 million teachers, 110,000 of them in Pennsylvania, because of a twist of fate which separates the effective date of the contract and the educator's teaching year.

Teachers under contract work on an annual salary basis beginning July 1, even though they don't actually step into the classroom until the first day of school in the fall. In those so-called summer vacation days, teachers under terms of new contracts prepare new lesson plans, study new material, and research new data as they update themselves for the opening of school.

It's like a doctor preparing for an operation or a lawyer trying a case. Both are paid for the knowledge and skill that qualifies them to practice, not for their time in the operating or court room.

But because the freeze was enacted prior to the first day of school, Wage Board rulings have denied them negotiated salary increases. Teachers are further discriminated against because local and state taxes have been levied and collected to pay for increased school costs, including salaries, and this is comparable to a price increase which authorizes wage increases in the private sector.

Teachers do not ask to be exempt from doing their part in making a contribution toward improving the nation's economy, but this time they have been unfairly and unjustly treated.

A Louisiana federal court and the Alaska superior court recognize the justice of this issue and have so ruled.

All teachers ask, Mr. President, is equitable treatment - the annual salary for a full school year's work.

That's why they support HR 11309, a bill before Congress which honors existing contracts. After all, that's nothing more than a common decent practice in our American democracy.

Off-Shore Drilling Important Natural Gas Source

MARBLE CLIFF, OHIO (CGS)—The Columbia Gas System recently invested ten million dollars in off-shore leases, in hopes of tapping new natural gas sources beneath the sea.

Off-shore drilling, a relative newcomer to the drilling industry, is many times as expensive as dry-land drilling. The average off-shore drill probes 11,000 feet below the sea's surface. An operation like this could total more than a half million dollars per well.

Special sea-going drilling platforms—as high as an eight-story building—can cost over five million dollars each. And miles of concrete-coated pipeline are needed to move the gas to dry land.

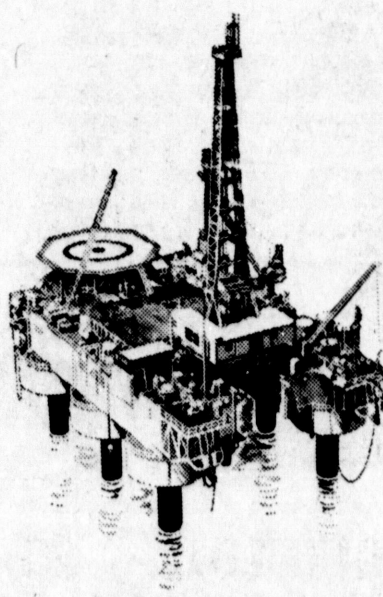

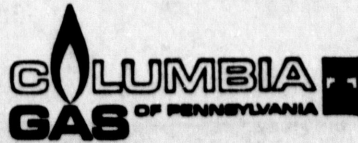

Apart from the high costs, off-shore drilling involves a high degree of risk. However, the off-shore shelves near the coast of Louisiana are credited with having the largest oceanic deposit of gas and oil in the United States.

These rich gas deposits off the Louisiana shores are the prime target of Columbia Gas System's drills.

Even though the risks and the costs of off-shore drilling are high, Columbia Gas is confident these wells will soon provide additional gas for the company's customers.

From beneath the sea

Off the coasts of America, standing spider-like in the sea, are hundreds of tiny man-made islands. Islands of steel and machinery. These are drilling and producing platforms that support a rugged breed of men—sea-going prospectors—tapping the vast deposits of natural gas lying beneath the ocean floor. It's an expensive operation to be sure. But then, clean natural gas energy is well worth it. □ Drilling beneath the sea is just another of the ways we will meet the ever-increasing needs of homes and industry for valuable natural gas. □ For heating and cooling, cooking, water heating and clothes drying . . . Gas is right there.

WIN TELEVISED GAME, 28-21

Falcons Swoop Over Packers

ATLANTA (AP) — Jim Butler raced 82 yards with the second-half kickoff, setting up the go-ahead touchdown as the Atlanta Falcons outmuscled Green Bay 28-21 in a nationally televised National Football League game Monday night.

The victory, Atlanta's first ever over the Packers, further tightened the torrid National Conference West race, moving the Falcons within one game of Los Angeles and one-half game of San Francisco.

Butler took the kickoff one yard deep in his end zone, streaked along the left sideline to the Packer 40, where he cut back toward the middle of the field, then dashed to the 19, where he was caught from behind by Al Randolph.

Art Malone got 10 yards on the first play and, three plays later, Bob Berry fired a three-yard touchdown pass to Jim Mitchell, as the Falcons took a 19-14 lead.

Atlanta increased the margin early in the final quarter after Ken Reaves intercepted rookie Scott Hunter's pass and returned it 31 yards to the Packer 38. Berry connected with Ken Burrow on two passes for 16 yards, setting up Malone's one-yard scoring plunge with 11:43 remaining in the game.

Green Bay trimmed the lead to 26-21 with less than six minutes to play after Ray Nitschke recovered Malone's fumble at the Falcon 24 and John Brockington, the rookie rushing leader, covered the distance on a sweep to the right side of the field.

Malone scored Atlanta's first touchdown on a one-yard run and Butler scored from two yards out in the second period.

Green Bay's Bob Brown blocked a 37-yard field goal attempt by Bill Bell into the hands of teammate Doug Hart, who streaked 57 yards for the Packers' first score.

Green Bay took a 14-12 half-time lead when Hunter hurled a 14-yard touchdown pass to Donny Anderson in the final four minutes.

Atlanta, now 5-4-1, added the final blow with less than a minute to play when John Zuck forced Hunter to fumble out of the end zone for a safety.

Tony Plummer had panned Green Bay back to its goal line on the previous play when he knocked Billy Lott's punt out of bounds on the Packer one.

Atlanta's tough front four gave Hunter trouble throughout the game. He completed only three of eight passes for 40 yards and the Falcons dumped him four times for losses totaling 31 yards.

Green Bay quarterbacks had been sacked only six times in their first nine games.

Atlanta dominated the game throughout, running 76 plays to only 33 for Green Bay.

The Falcons amassed 386 yards, while holding Green Bay to only 147.

Berry drove Atlanta 82 yards for a touchdown on its first possession as he completed four passes for 50 yards, including a 19-yarder to Burrow and a 29-yarder to Sonny Campbell at the Packer three.

He had Atlanta rolling again on its second possession before finally stalling, forcing the errant field goal attempt that quickly gave Green Bay a 7-6 lead. Brown also had blocked Bell's first extra point attempt.

Atlanta regained the lead on a 70-yard drive helped by a 15-yard penalty against the Packers. Berry passed for 42 yards, setting up Butler's touchdown run.

Once again, Atlanta failed to convert when the center snap sailed high and into the hands of Bell, who failed to run it over for the conversion.

SHOWDOWN WITH SOONERS THANKSGIVING

Cornhuskers Maintain Top Spot

NEW YORK (AP) — Nebraska and Oklahoma maintained a firm grip on the Nos. 1 and 2 spots in The Associated Press college football poll Monday, giving "Game of the Year" status to their battle on Thanksgiving Day.

Alabama surged into third place ahead of Michigan, which barely beat Ohio State 10-7, adding significantly to the game Saturday in Birmingham, Ala., between the Crimson Tide and Auburn, ranked No. 5.

In the other notable change in the week's rankings, Louisiana State crashed into the Top

Ten—in the No. 10 position—on the strength of its impressive

The Top 20, based on a 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 formula of voting, with first place votes in parentheses and total points.

1. Nebraska (40)	10-1024
2. Oklahoma (8)	9-0976
3. Alabama (1)	10-0740
4. Michigan (3)	11-0695
5. Auburn (1)	9-0553
6. Penn St. (2)	10-0625
7. Georgia	9-1445
8. Colorado	9-2356
9. Arizona	St. 9-1338
10. Louisiana St.	7-3273
11. Tennessee	7-2236
12. Texas	7-2229
13. Notre Dame	8-2116
14. Toledo	11-0106
15. Houston	8-282
16. Stanford	8-373
17. Arkansas	8-2-171

20. Washington	8-350

28-8 triumph over Notre Dame at Baton Rouge.

The Fighting Irish, suffering their second setback of the campaign, tumbled from seventh to 13th.

An additional poll of a special panel of 55 sports writers and broadcasters will be taken next Monday but the final poll, determining the national championship, will not take place until after the Jan. 1 bowl games.

The top six teams, all unbeaten, are involved in major bowls. Nebraska and Alabama clash in the Orange Bowl. Oklahoma and Auburn play in the Sugar Bowl. Michigan puts its 11-0 mark on the line against Stanford in the Rose Bowl while Penn State (10-0), No. 6 in the rankings, plays either Texas or Arkansas in the Cotton Bowl.

Nebraska, the defending national champion, continued to dominate the voting, collecting 40 of the 55 available first place votes. But Arkansas, with eight firsts, was a strong second, amassing 976 points to 1,024 for the No. 1 Cornhuskers.

Nebraska, boasting the nation's No. 1 team in total defense and second in defense against rushing and scoring, matches this strength against Oklahoma's 563.2-yard total offense average, the best in the country.

Both teams were idle last week-end, as were Alabama, Auburn and Georgia, which jumped a notch to No. 7.

Penn State walloped Pitt 55-18. Arizona State beat San Jose State 49-6. Colorado thumped Air Force 53-17.

Swimmers Open

With Big Splash;

Sink St. Mary's

Warren High School's swim team opened their season on a successful note Monday evening on the road, swamping St. Mary's 68-27.

Brothers Dave and Pat Walters had outstanding evenings, each capturing two individual firsts and helping the 200 yard medley and 400 freestyle relay units to top finishes. Dave won the 200 individual medley with a 2:25 timing and the 100 yard backstroke event with a 1:13.2. Pat swept the 200 freestyle and 100 and 200 yard freestyles, with clockings of 54.4 and 2:09, respectively.

Rick Peltz won the 50 yard freestyle and also swam on the two winning relays. Dan Pierce captured the 100 yard breaststroke event and took part in the relay victories. Larry Krespan, with a 4:53 timing, won the 400 yard freestyle and Steve Peltz and Chris Cleveland swam in the relays.

Coach Mike Phillips called the win "an outstanding team effort."

Fumble Recovery

For Ed O'Neil

In Saturday's Penn State-Pitt game, Warren's Ed O'Neil recovered one Penn State fumble and returned a kickoff 12 yards.

The Nittany Lions won the game, 55-18 to finish the season with a 10-0 record and a trip to the Cotton Bowl.

Game-Breakers Primed For Action

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — When it comes to raising a football crowd to its feet, Nebraska's answer to Oklahoma's explosive Greg Pruitt in Thursday's game of the decade may well be Johnny Rodgers, the Big Eight's premier pass receiver, punt returner and kickoff returner.

Their roles differ to a degree. Pruitt has dazzled as a runner in Oklahoma's triple option Wishbone-T attack. Rodgers draws more duty as a pass catcher and return specialist.

But there are amazing parallels in these two standouts on unbeaten teams which will be battling for the Big Eight title and a national championship claim in the Thanksgiving Day game at Norman.

Rodgers and Pruitt are deadlocked as the Big Eight's leading scorers with 1 touchdown apiece for the season. Both are juniors. Both have modest size: Rodgers at 5-10 and 171 pounds, Pruitt at 5-9 and 176.

But what really joins them is speed, quickness and the ability to turn a small piece of daylight into a sunburst.

It's been said of Pruitt that once he gets a defender on-one, "you might as well put up six points."

Nebraska Coach Bob Devaney has said as much about Rodgers.

"Get him on a one-and-one situation and he'll beat the other guy just about every time.

They soft pedal superstar talk in the Cornhusker camp, where a 10-0 season record and a top national ranking have been built on balance between an offense averaging 38.9 points per game, and a defense which has allowed only 6.4 per game, along with a balance between rushing and passing offense which tends to keep individual statistics from soaring out of sight.

But Rodgers, repeatedly labeled the most exciting back in Cornhusker football history, has compiled impressive statistics.

This season, he has caught 45 passes for 729 yards and 10 touchdowns. He has returned punts for 462 yards and a 15.9 average, and returned kickoffs for 228 yards and a 32.6 average.

His spectaculars have included a 98-yard kickoff return against Texas A&M, and a 92-yard punt return against Oklahoma State.

Although used only 29 times on straight rushing plays, Rodgers has averaged seven yards per carry.

He is says Devaney, a "complete" football player.

Altogether, Rodgers has advanced the ball 1,652 yards by one means or another this year.

In a two-year span he has scored in 18 of 21 varsity games, with his scoring plays averaging around 35 yards and stands to rewrite just about every Nebraska pass catching and kick return record in the books before his career ends.

Rodgers was a four sport letterman at Omaha Tech High, and proved the leading rusher on the Husker freshman team in 1969 with 310 yards, before being converted into a pass receiver.

"I like to score," Rodgers admits. "I'm trying to do it every time I get the ball. The only time I really take my mind off it is when we need a first down bad, then I just try to get straight up the field.

State Finals Set

In Classes A, AA

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Beaver Falls and Jeannette won semifinal games in the WPIAL Class A playoffs over the weekend to advance to this week's championship game.

Beaver Falls, now 10-0, topped Shenango, 20-8, as Jeff Hardy scored two touchdowns on runs of 4 and 12 yards. The other Beaver Falls score came on a 46-yard pass from quarterback Bob Thomas to Benny Coleman.

Jeannette advanced by beating Albert Gallatin, 34-6, as Kevin Gisanne tallied twice — on an 18-yard pass play and on a 15-yard run.

Kiski Area meets Thomas Jefferson Saturday in the University of Pittsburgh stadium for the WPIAL Class AA title.

In other weekend action, Cedar Cliff captured its first Central Penn League title with a 21-14 triumph over Lancaster. The victory also gave the Colts their first unbeaten campaign as they ended with a 10-0-1 mark.

The winning touchdown was scored by quarterback Mark Ullsh on a four-yard run with just 59 seconds remaining in the game. Lancaster had tied the game early in the final period when quarterback Greg Roth scored his second touchdown.

After then hit Jesse Roberson with a pass for the tying two-point conversion.

Scott Thomas and Rich Dixon scored Cedar Cliff's first two TDs on 28- and 48-yard passes from Ullsh.

Ullsh wasn't the only quarterback who had a good day over the weekend. Adrian Sinko tossed two touchdown passes to end Dave Olenick and scored two more himself on a pair of runs as Minersville beat Lakeland, 27-6, in Eastern Conference Class B action.

Neshaminy of Langhorne overcame a rash of early mistakes and turnovers to nudge Pennsbury, 21-17, and take the Lower Bucks (section one), and Big Seven Conference championships.

The Redskins spotted Pennsbury a 10-0 lead and had to come from behind to win their 11th straight game of the season and protect an unbeaten record.

Valley View, which will defend its Eastern Conference title Dec. 4 against Pottsville on the road, finished its regular season with a 10-0 mark as it topped Wyoming Valley West, 14-7. The triumph was the winners' 17th straight over two seasons.

All the points in the contest came in the second half.

Wyoming Valley West, in a three-way tie for first place in the Wyoming Valley Conference, will see action Thanksgiving Day in a game that will help decide the title.

ACCORDING TO THE GOSPEL

With the upcoming Thanksgiving Day football game between number one ranked Nebraska and number two ranked Oklahoma rapidly approaching, the religious fervor generated in Lincoln, Neb., over the game is shown on the bulletin board outside St. Paul Methodist Church.

FOR DENNY BUERKLE

Solid Four Pin Thwarts 300 Bid

Lee Munch was the most prolific of those on the county bowling lists, but Denny Buerkle seemed to create the most excitement. After rolling mediocre games of 162 and 156, Buerkle, a regular in the Warren League at the Riverside Lanes on Monday evening, fired ten consecutive strikes before a solid four pin stood between him and instant stardom. After all the tension was over, he relaxed a little too much and missed the pin on his second shot for a 288 and 606 set.

Getting back to Munch, he was the rage of the Penn Bowling Center in linking a 233 high game with two lesser scores for a league-and-county-leading score of 649.

Red Smith

Warpath Slowdown

WASHINGTON — So Dallas, which replaced Washington in the American League late in the baseball season, now has taken this beleaguered city's spot at the head of the National Football Conference's Eastern Division. Except for five heavenly Sundays when the Redskins won 'em all, it has been an Autumn to try the souls of the most sanguine of the capital's sports fans, even including that incurable buff who lives at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue. (Indeed, some authorities predict that if things don't get better and Phase Two doesn't work, he'll leave Henry Kissinger to mind the store and go get a job on the LBJ ranch.)

This was going to be the Redskins' greatest year since Sammy Baugh pitched them to a divisional title in 1945, but a funny thing happened to them on the way to the Super Bowl.

Undeclared and practically immortal on Oct. 24, they took a lead of 17-6 over Kansas City in the first half but at the same time lost Jerry Smith and Charley Taylor with injuries. Taylor, their best wide receiver, and Smith, the "gut" man at tight end who got them the touchdowns they needed most, had both won All-Pro distinction.

Without these two, the "Skins managed to lose that Kansas City game, and they haven't beaten anybody since except New Orleans, the most soft-bitten team in the N.F.C. Western Division. Washington hasn't scored a touchdown in eight periods of play, and Sunday's 13-0 shutout by Dallas made it four lost weekends out of five.

Until their dream of empire began to turn brown around the edges, the Redskins were regarded as geriatric wonders whose inspiring example was doing more for the aged than Medicare. George Allen, a coach who is addicted to clichés as some men are addicted to a bottle, refers to them affectionately as "my old geezers," because Jack Pardee is 35, Boyd Dowler and Rich Petitbone 33 and Bill Kilmer 31.

However, the average age of today's starting eleven was only 28.13, and that may have been the "Skins' downfall. These callow youth were no match for the old salt who engineered their defeat, Roger Staubach, a retired naval officer of 29.

Roger was a submariner after he got out of Annapolis and a sub quarterback after that. After the Cowboys had brought off the remarkable coup of losing to the Redskins, the New Orleans Saints and the Chicago Bears with Staubach and Craig Morton alternating at quarterback, Tom Landry reluctantly installed the old tar as regular.

He was reluctant because Staubach is a scrambler, and Landry considers it a crime against nature for the quarterback to run with the ball. "When a quarterback keeps running," the coach says, "Eventually he's gonna get hurt." Furthermore, he contends on most of the 27 times Staubach ran this season, there was an eligible pass receiver open.

Well, Roger ran five times Sunday, scampered 29 yards for the game's only touchdown and wound up with 49 yards. That was only five yards less than Washington's two best rushers, Larry Brown and Charlie Harraway, gained between them. Roger's average of 9.8 yards per carry far exceeded that of the game's busiest battlegroup, Duane Thomas. Thomas made 53 yards but had to carry the ball 20 times to achieve that figure.

Perhaps the most charming aspect of Staubach's touchdown run was the fact that it was aided, perhaps made possible by a friendly real estate salesman who had not played for keeps since the Super Bowl last January.

This character is Tony Liscio, an offensive tackle whom Dallas traded to San Diego last winter, and who quit when San Diego consigned him to Miami. Last Tuesday the Cowboys, having lost three defensive tackles to the medical profession, plucked him out of a Dallas realtor's office.

With the Cowboys on Washington's 29-yard line in the first quarter today, Liscio blocked huge Vernon Biggs away from Staubach and held the block tenaciously while Roger ran on a long slant to the end zone.

Mike Clark, another soul snatched from limbo after losing his job to a small Hungarian soccer player named Toni Fritsch, got the Cowboys' other points with a conversion kick and two field goals. After his second goal made the score 13-0 early in the second half, the crowd started screaming for Christian Adolph Jurgensen, 37-year-old dean of Allen's old geezers.

Jurgensen was hurt before the season started and Bill Kilmer was the quarterback who steered Washington to six victories. "But," the fans were asking, "What has he done for us lately?" They booed him warmly, and when Sonny Jurgensen got off the bench and started warming up—he wore a windbreaker that couldn't have concealed his paunch better if it had been made by Lane Bryant—they screamed with joy.

The clock showed 13 minutes, 25 seconds to play when Jurg went in. He threw 16 passes, completed nine, ran once for 11 yards, and contributed nothing whatever to the score. Every pot-bellied old gentleman looking on felt bad about it.

Bureau Predicts Good Deer Season

Pennsylvania deer hunters, who have had successful seasons in recent years on whitetails, should again have a good year in 1971, according to the Game Commission.

The regular two-week antlered deer season opens one-half hour before sunrise on Monday, Nov. 29 and closes at sunset on Saturday, Dec. 11. The regular statewide antlerless deer season is scheduled for Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 13 and 14.

Earlier this year the Game Commission had said that an antlerless harvest in the vicinity of 40,000 would be a reasonable expectation for 1971, and that this year's buck harvest would be slightly larger than the anticipated take of antlerless whitetails. Favorable conditions could produce a buck take of perhaps 44,000 or more.

Game Commission personnel again strongly urge all deer hunters to wear fluorescent orange clothing—at least caps and vests of this color. The fluorescent orange not only is the best color for safety, but it also makes much easier the task of keeping tabs on other drivers and watchers.

A hunter is permitted to take only one deer per year in Pennsylvania, and he cannot legally kill, or attempt to kill, a second whitetail.

To be a legal target during the antlered season, a deer must have a rack with two or more points to one antler or have one antler at least three inches long.

Not more than 25 persons are permitted to hunt deer in a single party and groups of five or more hunting deer in unison must maintain a big game hunting roster.

Hunters must tag their deer within one hour of killing and before the animal is removed from the spot where it was killed. A detachable big game tag is provided with each hunting license. The tag must be separated from the hunting license, filled out and kept tied to the deer while it is being transported, hung at camp or temporarily placed in cold storage. A deer is not properly tagged if the entire hunting license is removed from the hunter's back and attached to the deer.

The big game report card that is also a part of the license must be mailed to the Game Commission within five days of the close of the season by a successful hunter.

FIRST BEAR TAKEN

This 200-pound black bear was not only the first bear killed by Terry Conklin, left, and Donald Filerger, of Warren; it was also the first bear kill reported to the Times-Mirror and Observer office Monday morning. Conklin, who shot last, tagged the bear, though the hunters referred to its taking as a "joint project." "I saw him coming at a slight gallop near Jake's Rocks about 7:45 a.m., and shot him seven times with a 30-30," said Filerger. "Then Terry dropped him with two more." A good tracking snow aided hunters for the first day of the two-day season, with good success reported by a large percentage of local hunters. (Photo by Bonavita)

Coaching Jobs In Jeopardy

NEW YORK (AP) — Four current coaches, including newly named Jerry Smith of Denver, could be out of jobs when the National Football League season ends.

Knowledgeable sources say the quartet considered shaky at the moment consists of Smith, Harvey Johnson of Buffalo's winless Bills, John Mazur of the New England Patriots and Ed Hughes of the Houston Oilers.

who was stripped of one of his assistant coaches recently by club owner K.S. "Bud" Adams.

There already have been three coaching changes this year. Johnson took over at Buffalo for John Rauch, Ed Khayat replaced Jerry Williams at Philadelphia, and Smith stepped in at Denver for Lou Saban, who kept his general manager's title.

The only one of those three who appears certain to return is Khayat, whose Eagles have won three and tied one in five games since he took over.

Smith, who moved up from offensive line coach when Saban dropped the head coach's reins, is like all interim coaches dependent on many things for his survival, including the club's performance following his take-over and the direction Saban takes.

It is hard for many to believe that the emotional Saban will be happy tied to a desk job, which means he might be tempted to move on. That probably would leave Smith in jeopardy since he was Saban's choice.

Johnson is coaching the Bills' for the second time, having taken over previously when Joe Collier was let go in 1968. Both times he has surrendered his duties as top man in the Bills' personnel department, which he has headed up since 1962.

Tribe's Chambliss Cops AL's Top Rookie Honors

NEW YORK (AP) — Chris Chambliss of the Cleveland Indians, who got his break when Ken Harrelson decided to become a golfer, was named the Rookie of the Year in the American League Monday by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Chambliss, a left-handed hitting first baseman, received 11 of the 24 votes cast, outdistancing Milwaukee pitcher Bill Parsons, the runner-up with five votes. Oakland outfielder Angel Mangual was third with four votes.

Only two other players received votes—Boston second baseman Doug Griffin, who collected three, and Kansas City

To Lambert Trophy

NEW YORK (AP) — Penn State won the Lambert Trophy Monday as the outstanding major college football team in the East.

Penn State, bound for the Cotton Bowl, was a unanimous choice in the balloting for nine successive weeks, collecting 80 points in the final voting to 69 for Dartmouth.

Rounding out the top 10, in order, were Boston College, Cornell, Temple, Columbia, Villanova, West Virginia, Army and Harvard.

Announcing Name Of Senators Today

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — The baseball world will learn the new name of the former Washington Senators Tuesday.

American League President Joe Cronin, owner Bob Short and Manager Ted Williams will appear at a luncheon at the Inn of the Six Flags—the coming out party for the club which moved its American League franchise from Washington to Dallas-Fort Worth.

Short and club vice president Joe Burke have completed negotiations with area banking firms for financing to move the club here.

PIANISTS EDEN & TAMIR

Piano Duo Performance Concert Series Sets

Israel's brilliant duo-pianists Eden and Tamir will appear here Monday night, November 29 at 8:15 on the stage of the Warren High School Auditorium for members of the Warren Concert Association. Their tour, which they have made annually since 1963, is under the management of S. Hurok.

It is the second event of the season's series of concerts and, as always, no single admissions are available for the concert. Eden and Tamir dominate the two-piano scene in Europe as well as in their native Israel. Triumphant in recent seasons in Chicago, Boston, New York and Tanglewood as well as abroad, the duo-pianists first toured in the United States when they joined Ed Sullivan's Cavalcade of Israel Stars Show in 1963. During the following season they made their first full-fledged concert tour of the United States.

Both pianists completed their training at the Jerusalem Academy of Music under Professor Alfred Schroeder and worked with the renowned piano team, Vronsky and Babin in Aspen, Colorado, making their American debut there in 1955.

In 1956 they became laureates in the Vercelli International Competition and were granted the two-piano medal and honorary diplomas. In 1968 they were awarded the Grand Prix du Disque for their recording of Brahms' "Sonata in F Minor" and Saint-Saens' "Variations on a Theme of Beethoven. These and other recordings are on the London label.

Tionesta Troopers Probe Accidents

TIONESTA—Damages were estimated at $1,250 in two accidents investigated Sunday by Tionesta-based state police.

A two-car crash occurred at 2:45 p.m. at an intersection in Marienville.

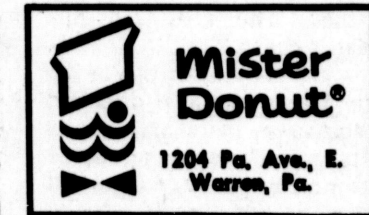

Police said Curt Kessler of Marienville failed to yield the right-of-way to Donald Stoops of Erie and his Ford coupe struck the Stoops auto.

The other mishap occurred at 9 a.m. in Washington Township, Clarion County.

Troopers said a car operated by Robert H. Bargerstock, RD 2, New Bethlehem, struck the rear of an auto driven by Bertha Siegel, RD 2, Lucinda.

There were no injuries, police said.

Tuesday's TV Hilites

Ken Berry, Dom DeLuise, country singer Lynn Anderson and the Four Leaves, a Japanese rock group, will be special guests on The Glen Campbell Goodtime Hour at 7:30 p.m. on Chs. 10 and 35. Comedy hinges on historical blackouts, a hangover victim and a hyperemotional psychiatrist.

Nichols is stymied by earthquakes and cutthroats while looking for silver in an old mining town on Nichols at 9:30 p.m. on Chs. 2, 6 and 12. After one of the tremors, Nichols finds himself trapped in the cellar of an old mansion with a strange young man named Frankie.

A murder case becomes a personal matter for Sgt. Ed Brown in "Good Samaritan" on Ironside at 7:30 p.m. on Chs. 2, 6 and 12. He is trying to help an accused man, an AWOL Vietnam veteran who just saved his life in a shootout.

A study in loneliness features series regular Elena Verdugo (Consuelo) on Marcus Welby, M.D. on Ch. 7 at 10:00 p.m. The unmarried nurse is being drawn to a boy rejected by his father and isolated by his mother's death.

Coroner's Inquest Probes Fatal Crash

FRANKLIN—A coroner's inquest will be held at 2 p.m., Monday, Dec. 6 to determine if there was any criminal responsibility involved in a fatal accident Oct. 11 in Reno.

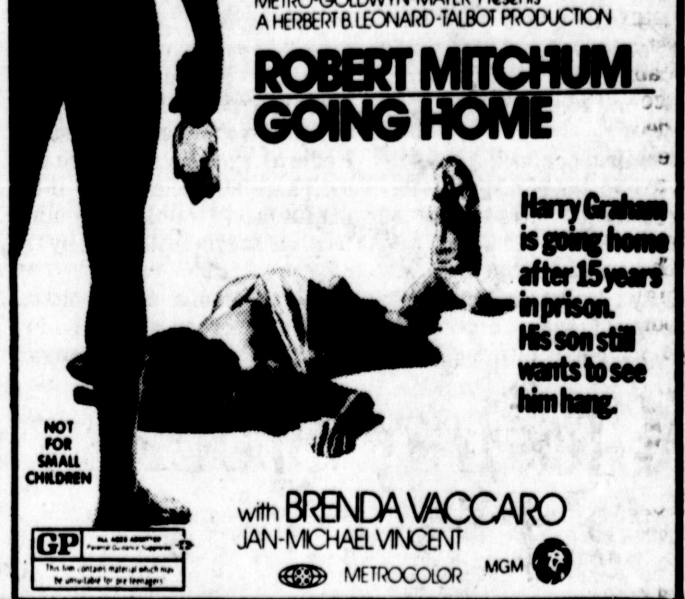

Timothy Gonzales, 14, of Reno, was killed in the accident and nine others were injured.

The youth was a passenger in a car driven by Michael Hoover, also of Reno.

Dow-Jones Skids To New Low

NEW YORK (AP) — The Dow Jones industrial average skidded to another new low for the year Monday as investors continued to demonstrate caution over Phase 2.

"What is emerging out of the welter of confusion over Phase 2 guidelines is concern that recovery of the economy in 1972 will not be as forceful as early highly optimistic hopes," said Monte Gordon, analyst for Bache & Co.

"Investors feel there will be a recovery but that it will not be of the dimension hoped for," he commented, noting that bullish remarks about the economy by Treasury Secretary John Connally Monday did not prevent a sharp stock market decline.

Gordon said that technically the market appeared to be seeking a short-term bottom in the 780-810 area of the Dow industrial average.

The Dow blue-chip indicator fell 7.52 points to 803.15 Monday, the lowest close since Dec. 2, 1970, when the Dow finished the day at 803.64.

Trading was light with only 11.36 million shares changing hands on the Big Board. This compared with volume of 12.42 million shares Friday. On the American Stock Exchange, 3.46 million shares were traded compared with Friday's volume of 3.2 million shares.

Declines led advances 1,046 to 314 among the 1,866 stocks traded on the Big Board, while losers led gainers 707 to 183 among the 1,128 Amex stocks traded.

The Associated Press 60-stock average closed down 3.9 at 282.2, with industrials off 4.1, rails down 3.5, and utilities down 1.5.

The New York Stock Exchange index of more than 1,300 common stocks dropped 50 to 49.97. The Amex price change index fell .23 to 23.55.

Skyline Corp., the most actively traded Big Board issue, closed down 3 1/4 at 43 1/4 on 249,500 shares, including a block of 188,400 shares at 45.

A total of 49 blocks of 10,000 shares or more changed hands, compared with a revised total of 99 such blocks on Friday.

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

Conference On Aging

By Sylvia Porter

This coming Sunday, Nov. 28, the long-planned White House Conference on Aging will open in Washington with 3,400 delegates attending—one of the largest meetings ever held in our capital and the first conference on aging in a full decade.

The conference will grapple with a broad range of problems facing 20 million elderly citizens today. For instance:

+Should early retirement be officially encouraged or discouraged? How much income do elderly citizens need now to live with a minimum of decency? Where should the money come from?

+Should all elderly citizens be exempted from property taxes? Should workers' pension rights be "vested" so they can take their pension credits from one job to another? Should the Federal government greatly increase subsidies for mass transit as it subsidizes other forms of travel little used by the elderly?

The questions are profound and affect every one of us. For while most of us are not among what the National Council of Senior Citizens recently classified as the "lifelong poor"—who have always been undereducated, underskilled and underemployed—many will fall into instant poverty when they become old.

Millions will find they have drastically underestimated the huge amounts of savings they need to make their retirement nesteggs inflation proof; millions will suddenly find themselves out of a job because their skills or occupations have become obsolete; or some illness will eradicate their lifetime savings; or they'll be forced to retire early on meager pension benefits.

More than six years ago, when Congress passed the 1965 Older Americans Act, establishing the ambitious Federal Administration on Aging, the goals included in the law glittered and glinted. Among them: an adequate income in retirement; the best health which science can make available without regard to economic status; suitable housing; opportunity for employment without discrimination.

The facts today shockingly mock every aspiration.

The Administration on Aging's total budget for this fiscal year ending June 30 is $44,750,000—about what the Pentagon spends to publicize its military programs and accomplishments.

The AOA has been repeatedly reorganized—as have many of the special agencies on aging in all 50 states. But, charged a recent report to the Senate Special Committee on Aging, the changes "have not strengthened the Federal programs and commitment in aging in any way...rather they have fragmented an already flawed and feeble agency still further. The situation has created chaos."

As just one illustration of the utter lack of national direction in this area, there are now 20 different Federal agencies attempting to run special programs or provide special services for the elderly. In almost all cases—particularly true for the AOA—the programs reach only a smattering of people. As another example of inadequacy, the Community Nutrition Institute in Washington a while ago counted a grand total of 266 programs for home-delivered meals for elderly shut-ins reaching a grand total of fewer than 12,000 people.

As a direct result:

+One in four Americans aged 65 or over lives in poverty, according to the latest census tabulations. For elderly blacks, the poverty risk is about 50 per cent. In addition to the 5 million elderly poor, another 5 million among us are "near poor."

+Only one in three older American households—individuals and families—has income of as much as $4,000.

+So low are Social Security benefits that 2 million older citizens are now being forced onto welfare rolls to supplement their income, and private pensions now provide only about 5 per cent of the income of our elderly.

Today's elderly may be docile about their dire condition. But, asks Edwin F. Shelley, former president of the National Council of the Aging, will today's militant young or, for that matter, the middle, not-so-militant millions settle for instant poverty and degradation in old age?

The resounding "NO!" is implicit in the question.

SUPER LIGHT NEW GENERATION SNO-PONY SNOWMOBILE
Blasts off faster, turns quicker, climbs better, stops faster than heavy old generation snowmobiles!
We know what you want because you told us. A lightweight snowmobile with high performance and rugged dependability. Not one ounce of surplus weight to hinder quick maneuverability. Won't bog down like heavy old generation snowmobiles. Can be lifted into a "go" position by women and children under roughest snow conditions. Sno-Pony... so nimble it handles like a sports car!
Test Drive Sno-Pony today - a "Quality Foremost" product of Sports Power Inc. - subsidiary of Gravelly Corp. and Studebaker-Worthington Corp.

The bidding:

Opening lead: Jack of ♠
Astute discarding by East prevented France from scoring a sizable swing against the United States when today's hand was dealt during the International Team Championship held in Taiwan earlier this year. In the event, the United States turned back the French to retain the Bermuda Bowl—symbol of the crown—which they captured in Stockholm in 1971 for the first time since 1954.

The bidding presented in the diagram occurred at the table where France held the North-South cards. The Jack of diamonds was led by West and the American player, seated East, put up the ace and shifted to the ten of clubs. West proceeded to mop up two tricks in that suit to complete the defensive book and then exited with a spade. Inasmuch as North's clubs were now established (the A-K-Q-10, had all been accounted for), there was no necessity for taking the spade finesse and declarer put up the ace from dummy.

The sole problem on the deal was to pick up the queen of trumps. Inasmuch as East appeared to be the player short in clubs, South led the Jack of that suit from dummy as bait to gauge his opponent's reaction. East was aware that if he ruffed in, it might serve to reveal the trump situation to the declarer, so he chose to take a discard. In an attempt to disguise his distribution, he shuffled the eight of spades. The nine of clubs was continued and East threw the nine of spades as South disposed of his remaining spade—the queen.

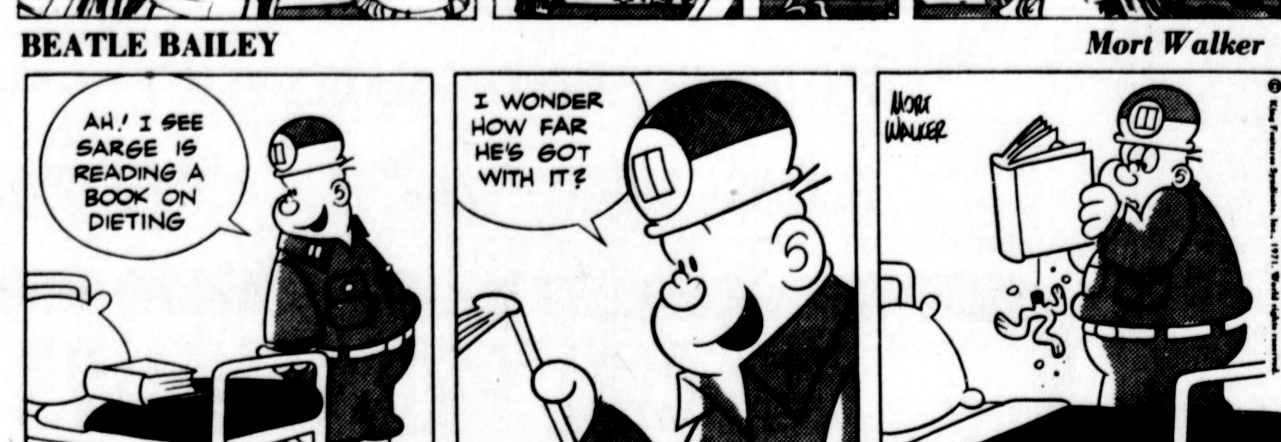

A diamond was led to the king and a third round was ruffed in dummy as East false carded once more by following first with the seven and then the queen of diamonds. South did not have much to go on. East's spots made it appear that he was not overly long in either diamonds or spades. While it was true that the latter might be false carding, declarer had little to go on to belie the evidence before his eyes.

He finally chose to play the ace of hearts from dummy. When he continued the suit, however, it was East who showed out and West became assured of scoring the setting trick with the queen of hearts. Observe that if East ruffs one of the high clubs, South can now overruff and by laying down the king of hearts from his hand, he exposes the situation in that suit when East shows out. West's queen of hearts becomes subject to a finesse and South loses only one diamond and two clubs on the deal.

Your Horoscope

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars
FOR TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1971
ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—You may run into many distractions now, but close your mind to them and focus your attention on due obligations. Concentration on "must" will be unusually important.
TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—Do not become frustrated over delays, disappointments or persons who get in your way. Meet obstacles with composure; you can overcome them all. Many good offerings indicated.
GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—An above-average day in certain areas; possibly trying in others. Meet all situations with equanimity. Don't anticipate difficulty; take whatever you meet in stride.
CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—Be discriminating in accepting suggestions: some may be good, others impractical. New opportunities indicated—some not obvious at first. Keep searching.
LEO (July 24 to August 23)—Decisions made now will have great bearing on the outcome of plans for the future, so be careful in making them. Especially favored now: scientific and technical pursuits.
VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—Pull up the reins rather than dash down blind alleys. You could get into trouble if you use the wrong tactics. Heed your creative urges.
LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—Your perception and intuition should be keen now. Get into the spirit of things and do your utmost—which can be substantial. Good news in the offing.
SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22)—A little more restraint may be needed to improve your chances for gain now. Don't rush into things. Plan and prepare well. Pick your target and aim for dead center.
SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)—With your innate good judgment and clever management, you should do well now. Some extremely beneficial changes in the making.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—The first few hours may be the hardest part of the day but, once in your stride, you should make time count splendidly. Set a lively tempo for yourself—and maintain it.
AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—Fine planetary influences. Put out feelers to gain new perspective, a broadened viewpoint, a variety of opinions. You should accomplish much now.
PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—Some challenges possible, but face them—unafraid. With the Piscean's fine intuition and ingenuity, you should solve all situations handsily.
YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with unusual executive ability, and have a penchant for introducing the unusual to add novelty and increase public interest in a product or endeavor. Highly principled yourself, you bring out the best in others, and your logic and reasoning powers are respected by all. You are energetic; endowed with a quick wit, a ready smile and tremendous courage. Many professions are open to you, but you could especially shine in the law or journalism. In the former case, you would, almost inevitably wind up as a jurist, diplomat or statesman. Birthdate of: Franklin Pierce, 14th Pres., U.S.A.

How to Keep Well

TEEN AGERS AND THE 'PILL'
If you were a physician, would you give an unmarried teen-ager a prescription for the "Pill"? A number of clinics in Birmingham, England, provide contraceptive advice and sex and social counseling for unmarried youngsters.
In the following case, a young man took his 16-year-old girl friend to one of these centers. Both of them wanted to avoid an unwanted pregnancy. The girl was mature for her age and the counselor, under the impression that they were planning to be married, wrote a prescription for birth control pills. She was told that it was clinic policy to notify the family physician in confidence by letter.
The family physician told her father and needless to say, the love affair was broken off. At first, the mother couldn't believe what had happened. But she finally thanked God that her daughter had enough sense to protect herself. According to the report in the journal, Medical Opinion, the clinic charged the doctor with breach of professional confidence. Its main contention was that teen-agers won't go to a doctor (or clinic) if he relays confidential information to their parents. Modern youngsters want medical information, but want it without a dose of moralism and paternalism.
Firmly convinced that he was acting in the best interests of his patient, the family physician thought the parents ought to know what was going on. After all, it was against the will of God for unmarried girls to have sexual relations. If the teen-ager had only seen him first, he would have tried to talk her out of it. The medico was sincere but had no excuse for not speaking to the girl before he spoke to her father.
The British licensing authority concluded that the doctor's action was not improper. However, the issue is by no means closed. Some question whether doctors have the right to make their own ethical decisions. In this country, a number of physicians will not give birth control advice to an unmarried woman. Most doctors will do so if she asks for it or has a valid reason for needing it.

TOMORROW: Rabbit Fever
Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.
HOT WEATHER THIRST
B.J. writes: During the hot weather I'm thirsty all the time—no matter how much water I drink. Can you explain this annoying condition?
REPLY
It is normal to be thirsty during hot weather, especially if you perspire profusely. It might be wise to have a urinalysis to determine whether diabetes is present, as thirst is one symptom of this disease. I assume you are not using too much salt.
BRAIN ARTERY DISORDER
J.N. writes: What is meant by a cerebrovascular accident?
REPLY
Stroke. The cause may be rupture of a brain artery (cerebral hemorrhage) blockage of one of these blood vessels (cerebral thrombosis) or a clot that travels from elsewhere in the body (cerebral embolism).
INTESTINAL CANCER
H.O.N. writes: What are the signs of a malignancy in the colon?
REPLY
Cancer is suspected whenever the individual develops definite changes in bowel habits (either diarrhea or constipation) or blood is noted in the stools. These symptoms never should be ignored.

Sugar Grove Library Memorial Book List

The Sugar Grove Free Library has added some more periodical subscriptions to its collection with the interest of the community in mind. These magazines may be borrowed just as are books.

This is the complete list of periodicals: American Girl, Better Homes and Gardens, Changing Times, Consumer Report, Golden Magazine, Jack and Jill, National Geographic, National Wildlife, Newsweek, Outdoor Life, Pennsylvania Folklife, Popular Mechanics, Ranger Rick, Saturday Review, Seventeen, Spinning Wheel, Sports Illustrated, Today's Health, U.S. News and World Report. For those who are interested in book selection and reviews, the following are available: Booklist, Bulletin of Center for Children's Books, Horn Book, Library Journal, P.L.A. Bulletin, and Science Books.

The fall session of Story Hour has an enrollment of 36 children. The Fall session will continue through December 8th. There will be no Winter session this year. The Spring session will begin sometime in March. The time will be decided later.

Many memorial books have been placed in the Library during the last six months. A list of them follows. This is not a complete list to date because some of the books ordered have not arrived. Watch for others to follow soon.

Some memorial contributions to the Library were used to purchase a much needed magazine rack. This magazine rack is in memory of Hugh Barrett, C. Donald Nuttall, Kenneth Frank, Paul Thorson, Agnes Scott, Rose Anderson, Beulah McHendry, Helen Onink, Robin Lord, and Arthur Cody.

The Sugar Grove Free Library wish to thank the people who give to the Memorial Fund. The Association tries in every way to place useful books or equipment in the Library in memory of the relatives and friends who have passed away.

In memory of Mr. Howard E. Rowland: "The Nature of Life" by Louis and Milne; "The Good Life of the American Farm" by Farm Quarterly Staff; "The Book of the Horse" edited by Hanlyn.

In memory of Mr. Charles Russell: "World of the Black Bear" by Van Wormer.

In memory of Mr. William G. Gourley: "Springtime in Britain" by Edwin Teale.

In memory of Mr. Clarence Schultz: "Frontier Leaders and Pioneers" by Heiderstadt.

United Refining, BP Agree On Purchase

An agreement in principle has been reached between the United Refining Company and BP Oil Corporation, a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company of Ohio, for the purchase by United of several BP outlets in Western New York State.

According to an announcement made Friday by Harry A. Logan Jr., president of United, approximately 65 service stations, a pipeline terminal in Rochester, N.Y. and 16 bulk plants with related wholesale facilities in 21 counties will be purchased. Also included in the package are rights to certain distributor operations in the counties supplied by United.

The purchase price is $1.7 million payable in cash and subject to adjustments at the time of closing. Logan said the transaction, which will become final in December, will be completed under existing lines of credit and is subject to the signing of a definitive agreement by both parties.

United currently owns or leases approximately 460 service stations in Pennsylvania, Northeastern Ohio and Western New York.

Clarion Bank Robbery Loss Put At $87,000

CLARION—Some $87,000 was taken in Friday's holdup of a Clarion Township bank, according to state police.

Police said an investigation of the robbery, staged by two men at the East Main branch of a Clarion Township Bank & Trust Co. was continuing. They said there was nothing new to report.

The FBI has joined the probe. A police description of the two armed men said one was stocky and about five feet-10 inches tall, with gray hair.

The other weighed about 155 pounds, was about five feet-eight inches tall, with dark hair.

Police said one of the men was carrying a double-barreled shotgun, while the other had an automatic pistol.

None Injured In Room Fire

Corydon Township firemen were called to the scene of a fire at the Phil Dewyer home last Wednesday. An overheated stove in the living room was the cause of the blaze. No estimate of the damage, which was confined to the wall and ceiling, has been made. Mrs. Dewyer and two children escaped injury.

The home is owned by Mrs. Betty Russell of Bradford. Twelve men and two pieces of equipment, under the direction of Fire Chief William Good, responded.

Douglas Cobb, a member of the Bradford Owls undefeated football team, attended a dinner held at Holiday Inn last Thursday evening by the Lions Club.

Mrs. Grace Wolven of Bradford called on friends here last Thursday.

Mrs. Ethel Clancy and Miss May Schurman are spending a week with relatives in Clymer.

Officers were elected at the November meeting of the Good Neighbor Club. Mrs. Corinne Arlia will serve as president; Mrs. Sarah Tome, vice president; Mrs. Emily Miller, secretary and Mrs. Marjorie Wilcox, social secretary.

Mrs. Eva Erickson reported a balance of $34.06 in the memorial fund. Members decided to order more fruit cakes. The officers will host the December meeting and there will be a Christmas gift exchange.
